NEW LAW LIBRARY WEBSITE

With many thanks to Alex Lee in Communications and Jessica Hanes in the Law Library, the new and improved Law Library website went live in May. While the website was designed with a law student audience in mind, there is also valuable information for faculty.

NEW E-RESOURCES

Oxford Scholarship Online provides access to full-text Oxford University Press monographs. Chapters can be downloaded in PDF. Most of the included monographs have been published since 2000, but the collection includes classic treatises published since the 1960s.

includes series such as the Black Letter Outlines, Gilbert Law Summaries, Hornbooks, Nutshells, and more.

Another group of items that was purchased with law students (and others in the Law School community) in mind is the Law Library's new collection of chargers for phones, laptops, and other devices. These items may be checked out for twenty-four hours and can leave the building.

FACULTY SERVICES

Faculty Research Service

The Law Library's Faculty Research Service handles a variety of research requests, from quick answers to long-term projects. We employ six research assistants, trained and supervised by Virginia Neisler, the Faculty Services Librarian, to assist with research requests.

Email Virginia at vneisler@umich.edu for more information or to make a research request.

Phone Page Document Delivery

The Phone Page document delivery service retrieves and delivers books, articles, primary legal materials and other publications from the 29 libraries on the UM campus, from online resources and through Interlibrary Loan.

Email phonepage@umich.edu to place a document delivery request, or take a look at the FAQs to learn more about the service.
