The Michigan 1904 (Law) News and Directory

A Temporary Directory of the 1904 Law Class of the University of Michigan.

Address all communications to CHARLES D. SYMONDS, Secretary, Nadeau, Mich.

Published by the WEST PUBLISHING COMPANY, St. Paul, Minn.
Corrected to January 1, 1905.

In response to many demands this temporary directory has been issued. But on account of the numerous changes in addresses now occurring another temporary one will be prepared about September, 1905. It is hoped that these two will serve the purpose intended, until a more satisfactory and permanent directory can be completed.

Many who have written to the secretary have perhaps wondered why their addresses have been so slow in appearing in the Alumnus, if in fact they have appeared at all. All addresses are sent to the Alumnus promptly, but owing to other matter they sometimes have to wait their turn.

If any one has indulged in matrimony since June, he neglected to send the class an invitation.

Don’t get discouraged; we haven’t heard of any one making any ten thousand dollar fees yet.

Lest you forget, we wish to remind you that “out of the facts the law arises.”

It is rumored on the campus that Willie Heston is soon to make the most spectacular touchdown of his life.

Charles Hammond is in an office in Cleveland, Ohio.

Paul Jones, who coached the Western Reserve University foot ball team so successfully the past season, expects to locate in Cleveland permanently.

Gedney considers himself very fortunate in forming a partnership with a lawyer having a good practice and sixteen years’ experience.

Margaret Dickinson has a very pleasant situation in Belvidere, Ill. In addition to office work with a prominent law firm, she does the reporting for the circuit court.

Edmund M. Sloman has opened an office in Detroit.

Sollars asserts that he is not yet married, nor has he grown immensely wealthy, but that he now has a good position in Chicago.

Charles O. Monroe has opened an office in South Haven, Mich.

Kimber & Huffman is the name of a new law firm in Akron, Ohio. They are now located in the Hamilton Building, their office in the Dobson Building having been destroyed by fire.

The class is represented in the Indian Territory by the firm of Clayton & Brainard, at Muskogee, and McGill, of the firm of Buttler & McGill, at Ardmore.

Former members of this class are urged to send in their addresses for insertion in the next directory.

Press dispatches inform us that one L. D. Greenfield has desk room in a Cleveland office building. Investigation proves this to be our own Louis.

W. R. Stevens has located at St. Joe, Mich., the Gretna Green of America. He figured that where there were so many marriages there would be some divorces. Subsequent events proved the soundness of his reasoning, his first efforts being on a divorce case.

Simple-minded Westerners, contemplating a visit to New York, should drop a card to R. K. Walton, stating the date and hour of their arrival. "Bob" will then meet them at the train, steer them clear of bunco men, show them the Flat Iron Building, George Tumpson, the new subway, and the Tenderloin District. Besides Tumpson, he knows the office buildings in which Frank Wagner and Charles Coulter may be found.

Charles S. Batt, of Terre Haute, Ind., says: "I came here, and entered the firm of Bays & Bays, which is one of the best-known firms in this part of the country. While I have nothing to do with their office at Sullivan, which is the main office, I have a regular partnership in the office here at Terre Haute. Our business is mostly corporation business, we being defendants in eighteen damage suits now on the docket. I got in rather lucky, as I have had business in this way right from the start. I watch the Alumnus every month, and am much interested in seeing where all the old boys are located."

Thomas Smurthwaite, one of the leading lawyers of northern Michigan, has taken into partnership Curtis D. Alway. The new firm is located in a live town, and has a flourishing business.

L. E. Rauch writes from Silverton, Or., as follows: "Senn and I located here Aug. 13, 1904, and bought out L. J. Adams, who had a nice little practice for a small town. As he also had a good working library, we are getting nicely started. Senn is in Portland at present, working with Williams, Linthicum & Wood in the Chamber of Commerce Building, and I am looking after the work at this end of the line. I can attend to the work here, and of course that adds his salary to the business each month. At present we have five probate cases in the county court, and the prospects of a circuit court case or two in the near future, besides several justice court cases. Senn and I are thinking quite seriously of attending the class reunion in 1909, but of course cannot say definitely yet, as it is too far off."

Scatterday is wandering through the West looking for a location. When last heard from he was at Tacoma, Wash. On his travels he met Truax, Townsend, Erieson, and Stoutemyer, also hunting for an opening in the Northwest. In Seattle he saw the sign "Karr, Gregory & Hoppe," and upon investigation found the second member of the firm to be no other than "Dad" himself. He found Hammun in the office of Carr & Preston, and Nockles in the Bailey Building, with an office of his own. While in Tacoma he looked up Wilkeson, who has an office in the Fidelity Building. Spokane is not without its representative, for here in the Rookery Building, contemplating the passing crowd below, he found Kiser.

Trippet was fortunate in forming a partnership with Thomas Duncan, one of the ablest lawyers of Southern Indiana. They are doing business under the firm name of Duncan & Trippet, and are constantly busy. During the campaign Trippet was out on the stump for Parker and Davis.

Hyde writes from Dallas, Tex., as follows: "You will see by this that I am located in the sunny South. Soon after we got out I took an extended trip, stopping at a great many points in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, Arkansas, Indian Territory, and Texas. I spent a week at the fair. Here I saw about fifty Michigan men with whom I was acquainted, William Martin Heston and Goodman being among the number. I arrived at Ft. Worth, Texas, about July 30th, and remained there a week. Going on to Dallas, I stayed there a few days, and then went back to Michigan with J. E. Forrest, a '02 Law, who has an office on the second floor of this building. I met my partner at Ann Arbor, where we prepared for the Texas bar examination. We wrote at Dallas, and were successful. They asked us three hundred and fifty questions. The laws of Texas are somewhat peculiar, for they don't care a rap for authority outside of Texas. We have the community system of real property here. So far as I know, I am the only '04 Law in this part of the country. I think De Vine will be at Houston later."

McGugin Will Again Coach Vanderbilt.

Dan McGugin, former star guard of the University of Michigan eleven, and assistant to Yost in 1903, has made the biggest sort of a hit at Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tenn., whose squad he handled this season. McGugin has already been signed to a contract to coach the 1905 eleven, the college authorities offering him an increased salary to hold him for another year. The Michigan grad, evidently learned the hurry-up secret, for his team, in eight games, made an average of more than fifty-six points to the game. Not only was the team not defeated, but it was scored on only once, and that time through a goal from the field, Missouri School of Mines being the lucky eleven.

The record of the Vanderbilt eleven, which is now of some interest to Michigan followers of the sport, follows:

Heston to Coach Drake Team.

William M. Heston, star half back of the West, will coach Drake University football team next fall, at a salary that is probably larger than ever given to a western football man for his first season's work in the coaching business. He is to receive $1,250 for the two months.

Heston was approached by several colleges, with offers of $1,000, but he turned them down. "Boss" Weeks got $1,200 for his first year's work with Kansas, and Herrnstein was given $800 for his first season with Haskell, Ind.

Drake is negotiating for a game with Michigan next fall, and if signed up it will be Yost's first struggle against one of his own pupils.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Recognition for West.

Among the all-American elevens picked in the East, one writer at least, Myron W. Townsend, of the Boston Traveler, gives the West a showing, selecting six Eastern and five Western men for his choice of the best the season has produced. This is the team:

Head coach, Walter Camp; field coach, Hurry-Up Yost; trainer, Mike Murphy or Keene Fitzpatrick; greatest player of year, Heston.

Mr. Townsend, in explaining his "heresy," says:

"These eleven individuals would be representative, I believe, of the best football in America this year. Six Eastern and five Western college players are chosen. The records of the Eastern men are too well known to call for any comment.

"Rothgeb of Illinois at end is the Tom Shevlin of the West. He is heavy, powerful, and fully as fast and aggressive as Shevlin. He can run 100 yards in 10½. His specialties are smashing up plays before they get under way, coming down the line on kicks, and smashing interference. No gains have been made around his end this year. Shevlin and Rothgeb far outclass any ends in the country.

"Curtis of Michigan is in a class by himself in the West as a linesman. He is of enormous size, but very fast and aggressive. Strathern of Minnesota, because of his quickness, experience, and all-around ability, is the selection for center. Flanked by Gilman and Curtis, and supported by two great and active tackles like Hogan and Cooney, the center of the line would be a veritable stone wall.

"Eckersall of Chicago is the best drop kicker, punter, and dodger on the gridiron to-day. He will outpoint any player in the East from fifteen to twenty yards on the average. This alone should insire him a place on an all-American team. He is a great man in a broken field, and runs his team very fast.

"There is only one Heston in football today. Many believe that the back field has never seen his equal."

“Next to a thorough knowledge of the history and principles of any system of laws is prompt and ready familiarity with the latest adjudged cases, for these echo the best thought of the bench and bar upon each controversy. Who fails to keep his hand upon the pulse of decisions and note its changes cannot hope for professional success.”

Hon. Henry H. Swan,

The National Reporter System and The American Digest System

make it not only possible but easy for a lawyer—even a ‘‘busy lawyer’’—to keep his hand on the pulse of decisions and note its changes.

The whole, or a part, at your service,—as you like.

The Organization and Management of Business Corporations

By Walter C. Clephane, LL.M., of the Bar of the Supreme Court of the United States; Professor of Law in the George Washington University, of Washington, D. C.

This original treatise deals with the formation and management of corporations for business purposes. It describes minutely the requisites of valid incorporation, the proceedings for organization, step by step, and the management of the corporation and its affairs after it is formed.

What can or cannot be done legally in these matters is defined as accurately as the state of the law permits. The various transactions are described, with specific directions, and numerous forms of instruments, records, etc., are given.

The whole constitutes an excellent practical guide in an important field.

"Too much cannot be said in commendation of that feature peculiar to the Hornbook Series, to wit, concisely stating the leading principles in black-letter type. It not only furnishes the lawyer with the most convenient method of quickly reviewing the general principles of a subject, but it tends to insure careful and accurate statement on the part of the author." — Virginia Law Register.
