

Michigan Law Review

Volume 39 | Issue 7

1941

1941 LAW INSTITUTE

Michigan Law Review

Follow this and additional works at: <https://repository.law.umich.edu/mlr>

Part of the Legal Education Commons, Oil, Gas, and Mineral Law Commons, and the Tax Law Commons

Recommended Citation

Michigan Law Review, 1941 LAW INSTITUTE, 39 MICH. L. REV. 1182 (1941).

Available at: <https://repository.law.umich.edu/mlr/vol39/iss7/5>

This Regular Feature is brought to you for free and open access by the Michigan Law Review at University of Michigan Law School Scholarship Repository. It has been accepted for inclusion in Michigan Law Review by an authorized editor of University of Michigan Law School Scholarship Repository. For more information, please contact mlaw.repository@umich.edu.

1941 LAW INSTITUTE

Following its successful Law Institutes of the past two years, the University of Michigan Law School has arranged for a third annual institute to be held in the Law Quadrangle on Monday and Tuesday, June 23 and 24. As in the other Institutes, the time will be spent in earnest exposition and study of recent developments in certain phases of the law of prime interest to practicing lawyers.

The topics which will be treated this year are torts, taxation, oil and gas law, and accounting. The treatment of torts will be limited to some of the more recent problems confronted in the practice of law. The discussion will be led by Professor Paul A. Leidy, who has made the subject his specialty for many years. Taxation will be handled jointly by Professor Paul G. Kauper and Dean E. Blythe Stason. Several timely phases of the subject will be discussed, including inheritance, estate, and gift taxation, and some of the more recent developments in the taxation of interstate transactions. Certain phases of income tax administration, including the use of closing agreements, will also be treated. The subject of oil and gas law will be presented by Mr. James A. Veasey of the Tulsa, Oklahoma bar, one of the country's leading authorities on that subject. He will limit his treatment to problems of oil and gas law of general interest to all practicing lawyers. The subject of accounting will be discussed by Mr. George D. Bailey, Detroit resident partner of the accounting firm of Ernst & Ernst, who will discuss features of accounting of general interest to all members of the bar.

As in previous years, the guests attending the Institute will be afforded the full use of the quarters in the Law Quadrangle. Sessions of the Institute will be held in the Hutchins Hall classrooms. The Law Library will be available. Mimeographed outlines will be furnished in advance to those who register, and every effort will be made to afford the guests of the Institute both a serious period for study of recent developments of the law and an opportunity for relaxation and enjoyment in the W. W. Cook Law Quadrangle.

The lecture sessions of the Institute will be held in the morning, from 8:30 until 12:30, and in the afternoon, from 1:30 until 3:30. The remainder of the day will be left free for golf, relaxation, and informal visiting and discussion. On Monday evening, June 23, a banquet will be held in the dining room of the Lawyers Club. The principal speaker of the banquet will be Mr. Gilbert H. Montague, a distinguished member of the New York City bar.

All members of the bar are welcome to the Institute. For those who wish to take advantage of it, the Law Library will be open, and its facilities will be made available to any member of the bar who wishes to pursue special study or who wishes to use the Library for briefing or in aid of any of the problems confronting him in the office.

The registration fee will be ten dollars, the same as last year, which will cover tuition and a room in the Law Quadrangle for the session. The fee will also include the annual banquet but does not include other meals. Reservations may be made, and any further information regarding the Institute may be obtained by addressing Dean E. Blythe Stason, Hutchins Hall, Ann Arbor, Michigan.