2002

Faculty Scholarship 1999-2002

University of Michigan Law School

Follow this and additional works at: https://repository.law.umich.edu/miscellaneous

Part of the Legal Education Commons

Citation

This Brochure is brought to you for free and open access by the Law School History and Publications at University of Michigan Law School Scholarship Repository. It has been accepted for inclusion in Miscellaneous Law School Publications by an authorized administrator of University of Michigan Law School Scholarship Repository. For more information, please contact mlaw.repository@umich.edu.
These citations are current as of press time. For an up-to-date list of faculty publications visit our Web site www.law.umich.edu.

The Regents of the University of Michigan

David A. Brandon, Ann Arbor
Laurence B. Deitch, Bingham Farms
Daniel D. Horning, Grand Haven
Olivia P. Maynard, Goodrich
Rebecca McGowan, Ann Arbor
Andrea Fischer Newman, Ann Arbor
S. Martin Taylor, Grosse Pointe Farms
Katherine E. White, Ann Arbor
Mary Sue Coleman, ex officio

The University of Michigan is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer. For more information, contact 734.763.0235
As Oliver Wendell Holmes Jr. once remarked, “Man's mind stretched by a new idea never goes back to its original dimensions.” The faculty of the University of Michigan Law School aspire to generate and articulate new ideas about the origins, purposes, and ideals of the law, so as to further our understanding of the historical and potential roles of law in shaping our society and ourselves.

Our faculty members share their scholarly insights with a wide variety of audiences. Much of this sharing is personal and direct, either on a daily basis with students in classrooms, or more occasionally with legislators in governmental hearings and judges in courtrooms.

The most sustained conversations with the broadest audiences are conducted through the medium of published books and articles. Through these works of scholarship, our faculty aim to educate jurists, officials, academics, and the public about prominent issues of the day, significant events and conceptions of yesteryear; and of course the critical issues and concerns facing our tomorrows.

As revealed in the following pages, our faculty pursue their scholarly missions through a diverse array of approaches to a broad range of subjects. Some faculty writings are passionate, some empirical, some analytical, and some even lyrical. Some writings address specific contemporary legal puzzles such as the optimal taxation of sophisticated financial instruments, while others explore foundational concepts shaping our society and legal regimes, such as consent, courage, and democracy. Some writings pursue issues unique to the American legal order or social experience, and others focus on issues of shared import to the international legal or political communities.

Our faculty views scholarship as an extension of the classroom. Just as we aspire to stretch the minds of our students through personal discourse and dialogue, so too do we aim to advance the art and understanding of law through an extended scholarly conversation with readers around the globe. Whether writing about issues timely or timeless, focal or foundational, we hope to help shape the evolving role of law in our ever-complexifying social order.
Sherman J. Clark

Laurence D. Connor

“In the Wake of Rule Changes, A Michigan Tradition May Fade," Alternatives to the High Costs of Litigation 17, no. 6 (1999): 105-

Edward H. Cooper

Sacha M. Coupet

Steven P. Crowely

Donald N. Duquette

"Re-Examining the Role of Patents in Appropriating the Value of DNA Sequences." Emory L.J. 49, no. 3 (2000): 783-800.

Rebecca S. Eisenberg

Phoebe C. Ellsworth

Merritt B. Fox

---

Richard D. Friedman

---

Bruce W. Frier

Thomas A. Green

Samuel R. Gross

Daniel Halberstam

Peter J. Hammer

David M. Hasen

James C. Hathaway

Don J. Herzog

Roderick M. Hills Jr.

Robert L. Howse

Douglas A. Kahn

Yale Kamisar

Ellen D. Katz

Thomas E. Kauper

James E. Krier

Richard O. Lempert

(Taken from his article originally published under the same title in Law & Soc’y Rev. 16, no. 4 (1982): 513-68.)

Rochelle E. Lento

Unique Partnership Builds Senior Housing in Historic District Area.” Affordable Housing Finance Magazine. Forthcoming.

Kyle D. Logue

Catharine A. MacKinnon

Deborah C. Malamud

Ronald J. Mann

Paul D. Reingold

Nicholas J. Rine

David A. Santacroce

Suellyn Scarnecchia

Carl E. Schneider

"Linking the Visions." Law Quad. Notes 43, no. 3 (2000): 20-1. (Note: This article is published entirely in Japanese.)

"Family Law in the Age of Distress (Millennium Issue: Family Law at the End of the Twentieth Century)." Fam. L.Q. 33, no. 3 (1999): 447-60.

Rebecca J. Scott

Thomas H. Seymour

A. W. Brian Simpson

E. Philip Soper

The Ethics of Deference. New York: Cambridge Univ. Press.

Grace C. Toner

Molly S. Van Houweling

Joseph Vining

Lawrence W. Waggoner

Marker West

Peter K. Westen

James Boyd White

James J. White

Christina B. Whitman

Affiliated Overseas Faculty

Christine M. Chinkin

Hanch Dagan

c-o-author: "Mekkarkeyin Be-Israel: Beyn Ha-Dati Le-Leumi." Tel-Aviv: Hotsea’at Ramot, Universitat Tel-Aviv, 1999. (Translated title is Land Law in Israel Between Private and Public.)

J. Christopher McCrudden

Bruno Simma

Frank R. Kennedy

John W. Reed

Terrance Sandalow

Theodore J. St. Antoine

