Dear Michigan Law alumni,

The people you’ll meet in this year’s Report of Giving embody seven decades of Michigan Law history and philanthropy.

Professor Emeritus Roy F. Proffitt, JD ’48, LLM ’56, came to Michigan for his legal education after service in World War II and returned to the Law School in 1956 to become a beloved dean and faculty member. With his wife, Jean Humphrey Proffitt, he has made many generous personal gifts to our mission, in addition to his countless hours of service to students and alumni.

Our young alumni are well represented by Matt Nolan, Patrick Jordan, and their classmates from the graduating class of 2006. As the books were closing at the end of the fiscal year, Matt led a successful initiative to bring the ’06-ers in as the most generous first-year class in Michigan Law history. For his part, Patrick both organized and gave to a remarkable family scholarship gift that honors his grandmother’s memory.

Between Professor Proffitt’s arrival in the Quad and that of Matt, Patrick and their classmates (laptops in hand), thousands of other alumni have received a Michigan Law education and gone forth into the world both to do well and to do good. As a part of the good they are doing, many have given back to the Law School, and we tell a few of those stories here too.

Their interests embrace every aspect of our mission, including scholarships, faculty support, the Law School Fund, program support, and our beautiful and unique building complex.

I hope you enjoy reading about these terrific people and their gifts. You have received this Report because, in giving to the Law School, you are among the alumni and friends who help to keep it great. I extend my deepest gratitude and most sincere appreciation to you all.

Evan Caminker
Dean and Professor of Law
Dear fellow alumni,

As chair of the steering committee for the Law School's historic Building On campaign, I look upon the results of the last fiscal year with a great deal of pleasure, pride, and gratitude.

I am pleased that the Law School had one of its best years ever in terms of private funds raised — nearly $17.8 million, an increase of 68 percent over fiscal 2006. This figure includes gifts made to all four areas of our campaign, including student support, faculty support, the Law School Fund, and our building expansion and renovation project. Indeed, the Law School Fund had a record year, supported by more than $3.6 million in gifts, with 458 alumni at the Cavaedium Society level of $2,500 or more.

I am proud that our campaign is progressing at its best pace since the public kickoff on May 14, 2004. As of June 30, we had raised more than $101 million for the Building On initiative, which is 76 percent of our overall goal of $135 million. I am hopeful that we will surpass all of our goals by the end of the campaign, December 31, 2008.

And I am grateful to all those who have made this wonderful progress possible, for you are helping to ensure that Michigan Law retains its stature as one of the world's great law schools. Your support is absolutely essential now that the School is almost entirely privately funded, with a historically low 3 percent of its operating expenses coming from the State.

Yes, I am happy about these great numbers, but I am far more enthusiastic about what they mean for our students of today and the future. For nearly a century and a half, Michigan Law alumni have gone on to excel in their profession, contribute to society, and make a difference in the world. With your help, the tradition will continue.

C. Vernon Howard Plans a Bequest to Benefit the Leckie Scholarship Fund

C. Vernon Howard, Jr., '62, of Middleton, Wisconsin, still remembers hearing from Professor Emeritus Roy F. Proffitt, '48, LLM '56, then the Law School's assistant dean, a few years after Howard's graduation. "Okay, it's time!" said Proffitt.

Howard knew what Proffitt meant. As a student, Howard had received financial assistance through a bequest made to the Law School by Frederick L. Leckie, LLB 1904, setting up a scholarship assistance fund for law students with financial need. In his will, Leckie expressed the hope that students assisted by the fund would in turn give back to the Law School when they had the means to do so.

Howard and his wife, Marilyn, took the moral obligation seriously. They not only began making annual gifts to the Law School, but they also repaid the entire amount Howard received as a scholarship. Some years later, they included the School in their estate plans. Recently the Howards increased their intended bequest to $100,000, designating that gift for the Frederick L. Leckie Scholarship Fund.

"Without the help of the Leckie Scholarship, I could not have completed Michigan Law School!" says Howard. "The intended bequest is an expression of our appreciation."

Students helped by the Howards' generosity will be encouraged, as Howard himself was, to give back to the Law School as soon as they become able. It pleases him to know that his gift, like Leckie's, will multiply, as future Leckie Scholars also give back to the Law School for the benefit of generations of students to come.
Malcolm L. Denise Remembers Michigan Law with a Generous Bequest

A half century ago, when the American car was king and labor unions flexed big muscles, the name of Malcolm L. Denise, JD ’37, was a household word in Detroit. As the former vice president for labor relations at Ford Motor Company, Denise was the company’s chief labor negotiator, respected by unions and management alike.

“He was an intellectual among labor negotiators – quiet, forceful, and tough but fair,” recalls his niece, Patricia D. White, ’74, BA ’71, MA ’74, dean and professor of law at Arizona State University, whose close relationship with her uncle inspired her career. He was also “a University of Michigan person, through and through,” White says. “He loved the law and legal education, and he loved the institution that gave him that education.”

Denise, who earned a BA from Michigan in 1937, remembered the University in his will with a $1 million bequest divided equally between the Law School and the Philosophy Department. In addition, Denise compiled one of the world’s great private collections of jazz recordings during his lifetime, and he also left this treasure to Michigan.

The Law School gift establishes the Malcolm L. Denise Endowed Dean’s Discretionary Fund, which to date has supported the conference “Law and Democracy in the Empire of Force.” The gift to Philosophy adds to an endowment created by Denise in 1986 to honor his brother, Theodore C. Denise (White’s late father), who received his BA, MA, and PhD from the Department and who chaired the Philosophy Department at Syracuse University. Other Michigan alumni in the family include Denise’s late father, Malcolm F. Denise, his late wife, Shirley, and his two oldest sons, Richard & Douglas.

Denise, who died in 1999, remained deeply engaged with Michigan throughout his life, serving on the Law School Committee of Visitors, chairing the fundraising committee for the Smith Library, and giving generously.

“In my last conversation with him,” says White, “one of the things we talked about was the Law School.”
Michigan Law is grateful to the donors who have made irrevocable planned gifts for the ultimate benefit of the School. Donors who entered into these agreements in the 2007 fiscal year are listed in red.

Donors whose bequests benefitted the Law School during the 2007 fiscal year are listed under “Estate Gifts.”

Earl J. Barnes Expresses His Gratitude Through Cavaedium-Level Giving

Earl J. Barnes, II, ’89, of North Barrington, Ill., says readily that the first reason he gives to the Law School Fund is because he is able to do so.

“For me, it’s important to give back when you can,” says Barnes, vice president and general counsel of Rockford Health System in Rockford, Ill.

Barnes is among more than 450 alumni recognized at the Cavaedium Society level in appreciation for gifts of $2,500 or more made during the last fiscal year.

He cares deeply about the Law School, its programs, and its students, and is especially interested in Michigan’s efforts to ensure that students are exposed to diverse perspectives as part of a quality legal education.

“This gift is my small way of being able to encourage that,” he says.

Born and raised in Chicago, Barnes graduated from Lake Forest College and was attracted to Michigan Law because of the School’s reputation for excellence.

After graduation, he returned to Chicago to join Rudnick & Wolfe (now DLA Piper), then moved to Gardner, Carton & Douglas. Over time, his practice evolved from general corporate work to focus on the representation of health care institutions. He was named to the general counsel post at Rockford more than five years ago.

Last summer Barnes also gave to the Law School in a volunteer capacity, co-hosting a reception for minority alumni in the Chicago area.

“I’m very supportive of these important occasions,” he says. “They’re phenomenal opportunities to meet people and reconnect with old friends.”
John B. Thomas Continues as a Cavaedium Donor

As his best law school memory, John B. Thomas recalls a seminar in Supreme Court Practice taught by Wade McCree, Jr., who joined the Michigan Law faculty after four years as U.S. Solicitor General.

"That one-on-one interaction with somebody who was so knowledgeable was a great experience, and one I’ve always looked back on fondly," says Thomas, ’86, of Houston.

The seminar was great training for Thomas’s career in litigation. A native of Waterford, Mich., in suburban Detroit, he came to Michigan Law after graduating from Western Michigan University.

After graduation he clerked for Judge Edith Jones of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit, who now serves as the circuit’s chief judge. Finding that he liked living in Houston, Thomas then hired on as an associate with Andrews Kurth, where he received substantial litigation experience and made partner.

In 1997, Thomas and two colleagues formed their own litigation firm, Hicks, Thomas & Lilienstern, which today has 18 lawyers and a roster of national clients.

In recent years, Thomas has become a donor to the Law School Fund at the Cavaedium Society level of $2,500 or more during the fiscal year.

"Having a law degree from the University of Michigan has opened doors for me and has been a valuable asset to my career," he says. "I’m pleased to be able to give back and would like to continue to do so for a long time."
Cavædium Society

Each year, annual donors of $2,500 or more are recognized at the Cavædium Society level in appreciation for their generous giving. "Cavædium" means "inner quadrangle" – a fitting description of these important donors, who demonstrate the significance of leadership giving and inspire others to follow their example.

Paul L. Lee Leads the Law School Fund to a Record High Level

Under the leadership of national chair Paul L. Lee, '72, of New York City, the Law School Fund broke several records for fiscal year 2007.

An all-time high $3.6 million was donated to the Law School Fund between July 1, 2006, and June 30, 2007. A record 458 donors made gifts at the Cavaedium Society level of $2,500 or more, for a total of nearly $2.1 million.

The Law School Fund – the oldest annual fund at the University of Michigan – is the primary pool of unrestricted gifts to Michigan Law, available for allocation where and when resources are most needed. Among the Fund’s many uses in recent years are scholarship assistance, support for the legal practice program, and support for international programs.

Lee, who is serving for the second year as the Law School Fund’s national chair, has once again set a terrific example of leadership: He has committed $100,000 to the Fund in honor of his 35th reunion, of which he served as fundraising chair.

“Although Law School alumni are participating at the highest level of any school at the University of Michigan, we must attain a giving level that compares with our peer law schools,” says Lee, a partner in Debevoise & Plimpton’s New York office. “Increased alumni participation in the Law School Fund will be a major focus of our efforts for the rest of this fiscal year.”

Lee chairs Debevoise’s Banking group, serves on its Financial Institutions group, and, according to Chambers USA, has earned the applause of clients for his “fantastic range of skills in the regulatory banking and insurance fields.”

He has earned the applause of the Michigan Law community as well.
John M. Lummis Supports the Law School Fund with a 25th Reunion Gift

John M. Lummis, '82, of Jackson, Wyoming, marked his 25th reunion with a gift of $50,000 to the Law School Fund. A consultant to private equity firms with interests in the insurance sector, Lummis served as fundraising chair of his reunion class. In a letter to classmates prior to the reunion, he shared these questions, which he asked himself before making his reunion gift:

1. Why support any law school?

    Whether in the U.S. or abroad, the rule of law creates the infrastructure of a successful society.

2. Why support the Michigan Law School?

    The Law School clearly delivers on the essentials of providing legal education to the next generation of lawyers and top tier scholarship on many important legal issues. The School is also unique in its interdisciplinary strength, its long tradition of leadership in international and transnational law, and an environment that promotes diversity in legal philosophies and political views while celebrating collegiality.

3. What will happen to the money that I give?

    I have made my gift to the Law School Fund, the typical recipient for annual gifts to the School. Reunion gifts make up over half of the Fund's resources. The Fund itself supports many central programs of the School, including the Center for International and Comparative Law, the Jessup International Moot Court competition, and many student organizations.

    I believe the answers above make a convincing case for the Michigan Law School and giving to the Law School Fund; add the opportunity to give back to an institution that created the foundation for our professional lives, and the case becomes compelling in my mind.
Class giving reflects all gifts to the Law School during 2007 fiscal year (July 1, 2006 to June 30, 2007). A complete listing of gifts and pledges for classes celebrating reunions will be published in the spring 2008 Law Quadrangle Notes.

Charles T. Munger’s Gift Will Brighten Hutchins Hall and Legal Research

When Charles T. Munger, vice chairman of Berkshire Hathaway Inc., visited the Law School in May 2006 as part of a campus tour, he was amazed by the lighting in the School’s public areas – or, more accurately, the lack of it.

A year later, Munger, of Los Angeles, made a $3 million gift to the Law School for lighting improvements in the Law Quad. The unique gift resulted from his recognition that he could add the greatest value to the historic complex through improving its lighting for future generations of students.

The gift will help fund lighting upgrades in the public areas of the William W. Cook Legal Research Building, including the Reading Room – listed as one of America’s 150 most famous buildings in a recent survey by the American Institute of Architects – and of Hutchins Hall. Work has begun on the project, which is scheduled for completion in 2009, when the Law School celebrates its 150th anniversary.

“Charlie Munger is one of the world’s most knowledgeable and respected investment managers,” said President Mary Sue Coleman. “We are grateful that he has chosen to invest his visionary gift to enhance the beauty and functionality of one of the University’s signature buildings, the William W. Cook Law Quadrangle.”

Dean Evan Caminker said Munger’s gift will result in a dramatic improvement of the student experience.
“Our beautiful and grand Gothic buildings create one of the most inspiring settings for higher education anywhere in the country, but traditional Gothic architecture often undervalues the importance of interior lighting, and hence leaves its inner beauty underappreciated,” said Caminker. “Thanks to Charlie, the public areas of the Law School will be more cheerful, bright, and accessible than at any time in the School’s history. After these improvements, students, alumni, and visitors will be able to see all the wonderful architectural details in the Reading Room and other areas in a new light, so to speak. We are deeply appreciative of this generous gift.”

Since his days as an undergraduate student at the U-M, Munger has always had an appreciation for the Law Quadrangle, dedicated June 15, 1934. A native of Omaha, Neb., Munger studied mathematics at Michigan in the 1940s. He graduated from Harvard Law School in 1948 and founded the Los Angeles law firm of Munger, Tolles & Olson, with which he was associated until 1965.

Highlights of the work at the Law School include the refurbishment of the chandeliers in the Reading Room and the cleaning of its 60-foot vaulted ceiling. In addition, the 1930s-era wiring in all the public areas of Hutchins Hall and the Legal Research Building will be replaced and new fixtures will be installed.
In his 30-year career at the Law School, Professor Emeritus Roy F. Proffitt, JD ’48, wore many hats.

Officially, he was hired in 1956 as a faculty member and the School’s first assistant dean. He later served as associate dean until his retirement in 1986.

But ask students of that era what they remember of Proffitt, and they don’t talk in institutional terms. They talk about how Proffitt’s kindness, thoughtfulness, and generosity changed lives.

“He was instrumental in keeping many of us in law school,” says John Galanis, ’63, of Milwaukee.

“He was very much appreciated.”

Proffitt taught courses in criminal law, criminal procedure, and admiralty law. For decades, he also ran the School’s scholarship and loan program, which gave him the ability to say “yes” to top students and others who, without help, could not have afforded a Michigan legal education.

“It seemed to me that if we were going to make it as one of the outstanding schools in the country, we had to bring in the brightest students,” says Proffitt, who in 1989 retired to Chapel Hill, North Carolina, with his wife, Jean.

But the help didn’t end there. The stories are legion of Proffitt loaning students the necessary funds – sometimes from his own pocket – to make a rent payment, buy groceries, or pay the electric bill. Proffitt recalls the time he loaned a student the airfare to travel to New York for a firm interview.

Proffitt also taught responsibility, asking students who received grants to sign statements of moral obligation agreeing to pay the Law School back when they could – and they did. (The student who borrowed the airfare paid Proffitt back with a $100 bill.)
More than that, the well-known dean was often the first point of contact for students with problems of any kind, academic and personal as well as financial.

Proffitt had responsibilities for alumni activities, staying in touch with graduates through visits and extensive personal correspondence. He is credited with being the architect of the Law School Fund, an achievement he disclaims. What’s certain is that he built an extensive network of volunteer fundraisers for the Law School, relying on the bonds he had forged with them as students. (Galanis, for one, has been a class agent since graduating 44 years ago.)

He also generated an enormous pool of good will.

“I kept hammering home that it is your Law School, and it is important to you that it stay strong,” says Proffitt.

For her part, Jean Humphrey Proffitt remained active at the University with the Faculty Women’s Club and the University Hospital volunteers, co-founding the hospital gift shop and helping in the Well Baby Clinic.

The Proffitts have been generous to the Law School with their resources, giving to the research professorship that honors both of them and remembering the School in their estate plan.

Two classes that felt especially close to Proffitt wanted to ensure that his name and that of his wife live on. The Class of 1959, which came to the Law School when he did, honored him at their 25th reunion by creating the Roy F. Proffitt Loan Fund. The Class of 1963 endowed the Roy F. and Jean Humphrey Proffitt Research Professorship of Law.

“His good works led to good feeling, which led to giving,” Galanis says.
The creation of the Eric Stein Collegiate Professorship is a truly trans-Atlantic endeavor. That is appropriate, since Stein, '42, the Hessel Yntema Professor of Law Emeritus, is a towering figure in the field of international law, specifically European integration law.

Stein escaped Nazi-controlled Czechoslovakia in 1938 and came to study at Michigan, later joining the Law School faculty after service in the U.S. Army. During his distinguished seven-decade career, he has been instrumental in bringing a comparative dimension to teaching and scholarship in American law schools, an approach that pervades almost all of his work. That is particularly true with regard to the understanding of post-World War II Europe, much of which American legal scholars owe to Stein's intellectual contributions.

But as highly as Stein is esteemed for his teaching and scholarship, he is equally well known as a warm and generous mentor, colleague, and friend. Countless alumni, faculty, and friends cherish memories of Stein and his wife, Ginny, who for years have nurtured relationships in the Michigan Law community as well as the international scholarly and legal communities.

In the 2007 fiscal year, the Stein Professorship became a reality, thanks to the generosity of 23 alumni and friends on both sides of the Atlantic who committed a total of more than $625,000 to create the chair. In celebration, a dinner was held at the Law School in May honoring Eric and Ginny Stein. More than half the alumni and friends who had supported the Stein Chair to date gathered in Ann Arbor for the occasion, with two guests flying in from Europe.
The evening was filled with tributes to the Steins, and Eric Stein rose to acknowledge the accolades in several minutes of scintillating remarks. In another of the evening’s highlights, Wolfgang Knapp, MCL ’71, of Cologne, Germany, presented Stein with a chunk of the Berlin Wall that Knapp had personally chipped off 17 years before; the piece of history was better served on his mentor’s desk, Knapp said, than on his own.

Those who made the chair possible are: Jean-Francois Bellis, LLM ’74, of Brussels, Belgium; Marco C.E.J. Bronckers, LLM ’80, of Brussels; Roberto S. Casati, LLM ’74, of Milan, Italy; William C., (JD ’56) and Janet E. (BA ’56) Cassebaum, of Ann Arbor; John Deutch, of Cambridge, Mass.; Timothy L. Dickinson BA ’75, JD ’79, of Ann Arbor; Alain A. Gloor, LLM ’80, of Zurich, Switzerland; Robert T. Greig, JD ’70, of Paris; James S. Hilboldt, Jr., JD ’81, of New Canaan, Conn.; Joan L. and Emeritus Professor John H. The Sams Family Continues to Support International Studies

The commitment of James F. Sams, '57, to cross-cultural understanding knew no bounds. The international lawyer and businessman started his career as counsel to the American Bar Association's Committee on World Peace Through Law and remained engaged in fostering social justice and international dialogue until his death in 2005.

For more than half a century, the Sams family has also been linked with Michigan Law. "Jim treasured his Michigan education," says his wife, Betty Hamady Sams, of Bethesda, Md. Jim served on the Committee of Visitors for several years. The couple's son, James K. Sams, is a 1985 Michigan Law alumnus who works in KPMG's London office.

In 1998, the couple established the James F. and Betty H. Sams Endowed Fund for International Legal Studies at Michigan Law with the hope of deepening understanding of the challenges facing the Middle East. Jim's estate plan generously provided for a recent gift to the fund of $250,000. Since its inception, the Fund has supported initiatives in refugee and asylum law, a conference concerning the legalities of modern intelligence gathering, and scholarships for students from the Middle East.

Betty Sams, like her husband a descendant of Lebanese immigrants, continues to work on the humanitarian causes that were important to the couple. Jim served as Chairman and then as a member of the Board of the Grameen Foundation USA for the last ten years of his life, and Betty remains involved with Grameen, which uses microfinance to fight global poverty. Interestingly, microfinance was a topic that Jim wrote about in the 1950s while working on his LLM in international legal studies.

"He was always interested in promoting international law as a means of resolving conflicts," says Betty, "and he believed that global justice and stability depended upon sound legal institutions."
Students

More than 200 members of our student body (listed at left) made gifts and pledges to the Law School in the 2006-2007 year. The group includes participants in the Nannes Third-Year Challenge, sponsored by John M. Nannes, ’73. The Law School extends special thanks to these young donors, who through their generosity are already adding value to their Michigan Law degrees.
The Class of 2006 Sets a Record Giving Pace

When the dust had settled, the result was clear: the class of 2006 is the most generous first-year donor class in Michigan Law history, surpassing previous classes for total gifts, total donors, and class participation: 144 members of the class gave a total $12,248, a 30.6 percent increase in giving over the previous largest first-year donor class.

Leading the successful charge was Matt Nolan, '06, a corporate associate with Kirkland & Ellis in Chicago. Eight of Nolan's classmates assisted in the effort as fellow class agents for the Law School's annual giving program.

In fall 2005, Nolan chaired the Nannes Third-Year Challenge, a program funded by John Nannes, '73, of Bethesda, Maryland. With other like-minded alumni, Nannes developed and launched the challenge program to foster a spirit of giving back among the Law School's newest graduates. Today, in return for pledges to donate for three years after graduation, participating 3Ls get to designate a portion of Nannes' gift – which he doubled to $50,000 in 2005 – to the student organization(s) of their choice.

Because of the faith Nannes had shown in upping his commitment, Nolan was determined to see his class fulfill their end of the bargain. He emailed and phoned pledging classmates who had not yet donated, as well as asking others to do the same, and personally contacted more than 70 classmates in the final month to urge them to make their gifts.

The final tally is a group victory, says Nolan.

“Michigan Law gives its graduates something that can’t be matched anywhere else,” he says, “and I’m proud that our class is a part of preserving that and growing it for the next generation. The more we, as alumni, can collectively understand how crucial our support for the Law School is, the better a place it will become. Next year I hope to make these numbers pale in comparison.”
Patrick T. Jordan, 2006 Alum, Honors his Grandmother with a Named Scholarship

On Nov. 11, 2006, Elizabeth H. (Betty) Thieme’s 90th birthday, she received a very special gift: The Ann Arbor resident learned that her children and grandchildren had honored her by giving to create a scholarship in her name in the Law School.

Leading the initiative was grandson Patrick Jordan, ’06, of Seattle. “My grandmother was so passionate about helping other people,” says Jordan. “I thought the Scholarship would be a good way to honor her.”

Jordan, who grew up in Ann Arbor, says his grandmother was an important figure in his life. After a family crisis that propelled Jordan into a turbulent adolescence, Thieme stepped in to provide stability. “She was the only person I would listen to,” Jordan recalls. “A lot of my values and principles came from her soapbox lectures.”

When Jordan entered Michigan Law at 30, after an eight-year stint as a sales manager, he had the opportunity to move in with his grandmother, then 88, to take care of her. “It was a nice relationship. She took credit for my grades,” he says with a laugh.

Although Thieme died in March, she lived long enough to know that Jordan’s first job after graduation was a clerkship with Judge Ronald M. Gould, ’73, of the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, from which her grandson would go on to work in the Seattle office of DLA Piper.

And of course, she knew that the scholarship at Michigan Law that bears her name would endure in perpetuity.

Terri and Scott Smith Create a Memorial Scholarship for Richard Beemer

Scott A. Smith, '79, and Terri Peterson Smith, BA '79, of Edina, Minn., have made a gift of $100,000 to create a scholarship in memory of their advisor and friend, Richard Beemer.

Beemer, who died this year, was a lawyer in southeastern Michigan whose career spanned more than 45 years. The Smiths were inspired to honor him through the establishment of the Richard B. Beemer Merit Scholarship, "in recognition of handling challenging family law matters with supreme skill, unceasing professionalism, and great sensitivity to the interests and concerns of all parties."

"Dick served our family with distinction for over two decades," say the Smiths. "His tireless efforts on our behalf are what made this scholarship possible. For that, we are most grateful, and we wish to honor Dick's career and service as a model for others who are about to enter the practice of law."

The Beemer Scholarship will be awarded annually. The Smiths hope that future lawyers will be inspired by Beemer's dedication and service to his clients and that his example will encourage them to "pay forward" those qualities in their careers.

Beemer learned about the Scholarship in the weeks before he died, and the Smiths hope that he was comforted by the knowledge that his life and career will be remembered through the Scholarship.

Scott Smith is a partner with Halleland Lewis Nilan & Johnson in Minneapolis. Terri Peterson Smith, a 1979 graduate of the College of Literature, Science, and the Arts, is a freelance writer.

- Law School Fund and other types of support (Goal: $35M): 118% ($41,200,000)

ABOUT THE LAW SCHOOL FUND

Thanks to your support, the Law School Fund broke records in the 2007 fiscal year. 5,388 donors made gifts totaling more than $3,640,000 - the highest revenue in the Fund's 40+ year history. Because these are unrestricted, current-use gifts, Law School Fund revenue in 2007 had the same budgetary impact as an unrestricted endowment of approximately $80 million.

Since the Law School Fund was created in 1961, annual revenue has increased dramatically. The average gift to the Law School Fund in its first year was $43; in the 2007 fiscal year, the average gift was $676. Even with adjustments for changes in the value of the dollar, donors today are giving, on average, nearly two and a half times what their 1961 counterparts gave.

Law School Fund Revenue

As the chart to the left illustrates, Law School Fund revenue has spiked in recent years, thanks in large part to the creation, in 2003, of the Cavaedium Society, which recognizes Law School Fund donors of $2,500 or more annually. Because a strong Law School Fund is so important in helping to keep Michigan among the very top law schools, Cavaedium Society giving is a key priority in our Building On campaign.

The Report of Giving recognizes donors to the University of Michigan Law School, as well as fundraising volunteers. Additionally, countless individuals give a significant amount of time and talent to the School. We would like to acknowledge all of these contributions and to let you know how much the Law School values volunteer commitment to the mission of this institution.

Every effort has been made to ensure the accuracy of this report and the inclusion of each donor who supported the School financially during the 2006-2007 fiscal year. Should you find an error, please inform the Office of Development and Alumni Relations so that corrections can be made in future publications and in our records. Information on deceased alumni is current as of October 15, 2007.
