Law School Fund
Third Annual Report
1964
IN MEMORIAM

James A. Sprowl
National Vice Chairman of the Law School Fund

Mr. Sprowl died suddenly at work December 23. During each of the years that the Law School Fund has been in operation he has been an active officer of the Fund. During the past year he served as National Vice Chairman and as local chairman for Chicago and he had completed a successful campaign. Many gifts were received by the Fund from his friends in his memory.
Dear Dean Smith:

It is with particular pleasure I report to you that the 1963 Law School Fund raised $128,012.81. This is the gift of alumni scattered through 50 states—and in foreign lands—to supply the "extras of excellence" that will help keep the Michigan Law School where we all want it to be: with the leaders.

The dollars supplied are, of course, important. They help solve immediate problems. But this is only a by-product.

An even more important gift that the Law School Fund brings to Ann Arbor is an increasing interest in the affairs of the School on the part of a growing group of alumni. This is reflected in the growth of the Law School Fund. Here are the figures:

The result achieved in 1963 is the work of the 324 individuals who, laying aside other demands on their time, actively, willingly, and enthusiastically participated as workers in the campaign.

In their behalf, I make this report to you.

Sincerely,

Thomas V. Koykka
National Chairman

Dear Tom:

The third year of the Law School Fund was an unqualified success and we are grateful to you for your splendid leadership. The growth of the Fund, both in dollars and in the number of participating alumni, is the best measure of the success of your efforts, and that growth speaks for itself.

When you next visit the Law School you will see evidence of the help the Fund provides. One of every three students you pass in the corridors will have received financial assistance from the Law School—a program made possible in its full scope only by the Fund. You may pass in the corridor a distinguished visiting professor financed by the Fund. Or you may participate in the Honors Banquet for our honor students. The research library contains some valuable research tools which would not have been available without this support. One of the gifts this year supports a new prize award to stimulate research in trust law. Another provides added support for our moot court program. A third puts more realism in our practice court work. These are, in truth, the extras of excellence, and they strengthen our pride in the institution which you and your co-workers are supporting.

The faculty of the Law School deeply appreciate the contribution of the many man-hours of labor which have been required from state and local chairmen and from solicitors to make the program work. We hope that we can make the wise use of the funds which you and the hundreds of donors are entitled to expect.

Sincerely yours,

Allan F. Smith
Dean
The Law Fund

As a result of the Law Fund money was available when needed for student financial assistance that spelled the difference between keeping promising lawyers in school or losing them to other vocations.

Library funds have been augmented so that the University of Michigan Law Library can maintain its position among the few best in the nation.

Important student activities have been made possible because the financial means are available for programs that add meaning and emphasis to the Law School curriculum.

A distinguished European jurist, America's foremost reporter of legal news, and lawyers and judges shared their experiences with Law School Students.

Special equipment and facilities to improve law training were acquired.

All these and other developments have resulted from alumni support through the Law School Fund, which this year again set a record for both participation by alumni and friends and amount contributed.

In all, 2,510 donors gave $128,012.81 to the fund, an increase of 46.3% over last year when 1,820 donors gave $87,493.94.

The quality of alumni support is one of the measuring sticks by which any educational institution is judged. The support accorded the Law School in recent years through the Fund is outstanding by any criteria.

In the following pages is the third annual report of the Law School Fund. It is a statistical review.

It is difficult, however, to indicate the impact of the Fund on the Law School simply by listing contributions.

Money that finds its way into student loans for example, has the immediate effect of assisting a significant number of students to continue their legal studies. It will be some years before the contributions these students may make to the profession can be assessed, yet whatever contributions are made will be a result of the generosity of alumni and friends.

Similarly, as the Law School maintains its eminence among American law schools in the coming years, the Fund will be a factor in its continuing leadership. Michigan has been a leader in developing new techniques and refining methods for legal education, but this leadership needs support.

The Law School was the first in the nation to utilize closed-circuit television as a teaching aide. Its practice court system is among the strongest in the United States. It has attracted distinguished scholars as teachers and lecturers. It has kept its curriculum under continuing scrutiny—both from within and through the annual visits of the Committee of Visitors.

No institution remains among the best without strong support. The University of Michigan Law School has received a strong demonstration of support through the generosity of contributors to the 1963 Law School Fund.
Resolution

Adopted by the Faculty, University of Michigan Law School, February 28, 1964

The Law School of the University of Michigan is grateful for the contributions to the Law School Fund—$128,000.00 in 1963—$261,000.00 since its inception. The School is proud of its interested alumni family.

This statement of gratitude and pride is expressed on behalf of the faculty, the student body, and the administration of the University for the contributions have assisted the Law School to carry out its charge of “providing instruction and continued research in law and in the science of jurisprudence, comparative jurisprudence, and legislation to the end that its graduates may become prudent counsellors, wise legislators, and useful leaders.”

In particular, the Law School Fund has helped needy students through loans and scholarships, has assisted in bringing lawyers, judges and law teachers of world-wide distinction to the campus to enrich the learning process, has assisted in making the Practice Court training program more effective, has assisted the Law Review, has assisted the library to acquire needed additional books and has aided the faculty on important research programs.

The Fund solicitors, class agents, local chairmen, state chairmen, regional chairmen and National Committee members are singled out for special thanks.

This statement of gratitude for, and pride in, the interest and activity of the alumni of the School is to be communicated to all alumni of the School.

Dr. Hans Rupp, Judge of the German Constitutional Court collaborated with Prof. Paul Kauper in teaching the Comparative Constitutional Law seminar last fall. Dr. Rupp was born August 30, 1907 in Stuttgart, Germany. After passing the two German legal state examinations (in 1929 and 1934) he served with the courts in Stuttgart and Reutlingen as assistant judge (Gerichtsassessor). From 1935 to 1937, he engaged in research at Harvard University, then served as chief researcher (Hauptreferent) for Anglo-American law at the Kaiser-Wilhelm-Institut fur auslandisches und internationales Recht in Berlin and Tubingen. His experience includes practice in Berlin, lecturing at the University of Jena, and, after the war, as departmental head (Ministerialrat) at the Ministry of Culture of the Land Wurttemberg-Baden. In 1946–47 he was a member of the constitutional convention of Wurttemberg-Hohenzollern, and since 1947 has been a member of the Max Planck Institut in Tubingen. Since 1935, he has held a professional appointment at the University of Tubingen, and since 1931, he has been Judge of the German Constitutional Court (Bundesverfassungsgericht) as member of the Second Senat.

First Year Law Class 1963-64

These students, a portion of the first year class for 1963-64, are typical of those receiving financial assistance. Dean Allan F. Smith states that "one of every three students you pass in the corridors will have received financial assistance from the Law School—a program made possible in its full scope only by the Law School Fund."

The interest of the Upper Staff of the Law Review is stimulated by the competition for the Jason L. Honigman Award. This cash award, from the Law School Fund is given each year to the senior student editor of the Michigan Law Review, who, in the opinion of the faculty of the Law School, has made the greatest contribution to the Review during the preceding two years.

The Scholarship Committee composed of Assistant Dean Roy Proffitt, Prof. Jack R. Pearce and Prof. Robert L. Knauss interviews and makes loans to needy students. The great bulk of the funds from annual giving by alumni are used for student assistance. Approximately 64% of the 1963 funds given by alumni will be used for this purpose. This will provide ultimately a rotating fund that will keep money coming back to be used over and over again as students repay the loans after graduation.

THE "BANK LOAN" PROGRAM

The Law School Fund has been used, through a special "bank loan" program, to increase the loan funds available for law students. Before this "bank loan" program was inaugurated the Law School loan accounts were completely exhausted.
We have placed on deposit in two Ann Arbor banks a portion of the Law School Fund money to guarantee repayment of loans made to law students. For this deposit and guaranty the banks have extended to our students substantial amounts of credit several times the amount of the deposit. By this arrangement we have thus multiplied the usefulness of Law School Fund gifts.
