ON THE COVER: Jonsbok is a collection of laws introduced in Iceland from Norway in the last decades of the 13th century. Pictured here is the beginning of the section dealing with theft from an illuminated manuscript dating from the first quarter of the 14th century. The text introduced by the illuminated initial contains a general prohibition against theft and then adds, "but there is this qualification: if, because of hunger, a person steals food who is not able to support himself and thereby preserves his life, the theft will be in no way punishable."
