BOOK NOTES

This department undertakes to list and, when possible, describe briefly current books on law and related subjects (e.g. economics, business, finance, sociology, government, etc.) which are of possible value to the legal profession. Periodicals, court reports, and other publications that appear at regular intervals are not listed. Information given in the notices is derived from the ordinary library sources, prefaces by authors, and publishers' literature. Notice in these columns does not preclude more extensive review at a later time.
