

Table of Contents

Volume I

	PAGE
FOREWORD AND ACKNOWLEDGMENTS	v
ANALYTICAL TABLE OF CONTENTS	xii
CHAPTER
I. AN AMERICAN LAWYER VIEWS EUROPEAN INTEGRATION: AN INTRODUCTION	Eric Stein 1
II. THE NEW INSTITUTIONS	Eric Stein 33
III. THE ESTABLISHMENT OF THE CUSTOMS UNION (APPENDIX: THE EUROPEAN FREE TRADE ASSOCIATION)	Marc Ouin 101
IV. EXCHANGE CONTROL REGULATIONS IN FRANCE	Fernand Charles Jeantet 189
V. INDUSTRIAL PROPERTY	Stephen P. Ladas 235
VI. LABOR LAW AND SOCIAL SECURITY	Otto Kahn-Freund 297
VII. NEW LEGAL REMEDIES OF ENTERPRISES: A SURVEY	Eric Stein and Peter Hay 459

Volume II

ANALYTICAL TABLE OF CONTENTS	vi
VIII. ORGANIZING FOR BUSINESS	Alfred F. Conard 1
IX. THE SIGNIFICANCE OF TREATIES TO THE ESTABLISHMENT OF COMPANIES	Thomas L. Nicholson 153
X. PROTECTION OF COMPETITION	Stefan A. Riesenfeld 197
XI. TAXATION	J. van Hoorn, Jr. and L. Hart Wright 343
XII. THE ASSOCIATION OF THE OVERSEAS COUNTRIES AND TERRITORIES	Peter Hay 647
ANNEX EUROPEAN FREE TRADE ASSOCIATION, TEXT OF CONVENTION AND OTHER DOCUMENTS	687

Analytical Table of Contents for Volume II

	PAGE
CHAPTER VIII. ORGANIZING FOR BUSINESS	I
I. Doing Business from the Outside (without "Establishment")	3
A. Freedom of Entry	3
1. Provisions Directed Especially Against Foreigners	3
2. Domestic Licensing Provisions	7
B. Stages of Entry	9
1. No Foreign Assets	10
2. Effects of Foreign Assets	11
3. Employees in Europe	12
a. Liability to Suit	12
b. Liability to Commercial Regulation	13
c. Liability to Taxes on Income and Capital	14
4. The Commission Merchant	15
5. A Business Office	17
6. Withdrawing an Establishment	18
C. Summary on Establishment	18
II. The Form of Establishment	19
A. Branch or Subsidiary	20
1. U.S. Income Taxes	20
2. European Taxes	21
3. Political and Public Relations	22
4. Commercial Filing and Registration	23
5. The Foreign Merchant's Identity Card	25
6. Liability for Obligations of Branches and Subsidiaries	26
a. The Insolvency Problem: Branch Organization	26
b. The Insolvency Problem: Subsidiary Organization	27

	PAGE
c. The Migratory Suit Problem: Branch Organization	29
d. The Migratory Suit Problem: Subsidiary Organization	30
7. Change of Form: Incorporating a Branch	31
8. Closing Out the Operation	32
9. Summary on Branches or Subsidiaries	33
B. How Many Subsidiaries?	34
1. Advantages of a Single European Company	34
2. The Prospective Evolution of the Community	35
3. Obstacles to a Single European Company	36
4. Harmonizing Subsidiary Operations	37
5. A European Holding Company	40
6. Merging Subsidiaries	41
7. Suggested Conclusions	42
III. Forming a European Subsidiary	43
A. The European Company Laws	43
1. Family Resemblances (and Divergencies)	43
2. Where to Find the Laws	44
B. The Choice of Company Form	46
1. The Kinds to Choose From—and Their Names	46
2. The Limited Liability Company—Its Pros and Cons	51
a. Non-Negotiability of Shares	52
b. Exclusion from Financial Markets	53
c. Other Disadvantages	54
d. Restrictability of Share Transfers	55
e. Number of Shareholders	56
f. Number of Officers and Directors	57
g. Labor Representation	59
h. Privacy	59
i. Other Advantages	60
3. Transformation	60
C. The Choice of a State of Incorporation	61
1. The Determining Factors	61
2. The "Delawares of Europe"	65
D. The European Lawyer's Role in Incorporation	66

	PAGE
1. The Advocate	67
2. The "Attorneys-of-Record"	68
3. The Notary	69
4. Unlicensed Lawyers	70
5. Which Kind of Lawyer?	71
E. The Organic Documents	72
1. Draw Them in Europe!	72
2. Articles and By-Laws	73
3. Purpose Clauses	74
4. Rules of Internal Government	75
F. Incorporators	76
G. Capital and Its Payment	79
1. Statement in the Articles	79
2. Shares of Stock; Par Value	82
3. Payment for Shares—Money or Property	83
H. Filing and Approval	87
IV. Management of a European Subsidiary	87
A. The Parallel Organs of Management	88
1. Shareholders	88
2. Governing Board	88
3. Executives	89
4. Auditors	90
5. Control	90
B. Major Differences in European Management Structure	91
1. Supremacy of the Shareholders	91
2. One-Man Management	95
3. One-Company Management	97
4. Governing Boards and Executives	97
5. The German Boards	100
6. Labor Participation in Management; Co-Determination	102
7. Qualifications of Board Members: Nationality and Stockholding	105
8. Auditors	107
9. Compensation of Board Members and Executives	110
10. Civil Liabilities of Managers and Board Members	112

	PAGE
V. Financing a European Subsidiary	113
A. Monetary Problems	113
1. The Licensing of Foreign Exchange Trans- actions	113
2. Treaty Limitations on Exchange Controls	116
3. Fluctuating Exchange Rates	122
B. Equity Financing	123
1. Divided Ownership	123
2. Control Devices	125
3. Kinds of Shares: Degrees of Negotiability	129
4. Formalities Required to Increase Capital	132
C. Financing with Borrowed Funds	134
1. Trading on the Equity; Obstacles to the Use of "Leverage"	134
2. Limits on Debt Obligations	136
3. Sources of Credit	137
4. International Credit Sources	139
D. Securities Regulation; Public Offerings of Se- curities	141
1. Exclusion of Limited Liability Companies	142
2. Registration of Stock Offerings	142
3. Licensing of Public Offerings	143
4. The Belgian Banking Commission	145
E. A Common Market for Capital?	147
Postscript	149

CHAPTER IX. THE SIGNIFICANCE OF TREATIES TO THE
ESTABLISHMENT OF COMPANIES 153

I. Introduction	153
II. Treaties of Commerce	154
A. Treaties of Commerce in General	154
B. The Convention with France	155
1. The Protection of Establishment Generally	155
2. The Companies Protected	157
3. Employment of Non-Nationals	158
4. Ownership of Real Property	161
5. Right to Sue in French Courts	162

	PAGE
6. Voluntary Termination of Business Activity	162
7. Expropriation	163
III. The Convention with France and the E.E.C. Treaty Compared	164
A. General Comparisons	164
B. The Comparable Provisions of the E.E.C. Treaty	165
1. The Companies Protected	166
2. Employment of Non-Nationals	172
3. Ownership of Real Property	173
4. Access to the Courts	174
5. Voluntary Termination of Business Activity	174
a. The Impact of the Treaty on Exchange Controls	175
b. Discrimination Against Community Companies Controlled from Abroad	175
c. Conclusion	176
6. Expropriation	176
C. The Convention with France and the E.E.C. Treaty Compared in Detail	177
1. The Companies Protected	177
2. The Employment of Non-Nationals	178
3. Ownership of Real Property	178
4. Access to Courts	179
5. Voluntary Termination of Business Activity	179
6. Expropriation	179
IV. The Treaties of Commerce and the E.E.C. Treaty Related	180
A. The Effect of Most-Favored-Nation Clauses	180
B. Concurrent Protection Under Different Treaties	183
V. Doing Business Within the Community Under the E.E.C. Treaty	183
A. The "Services" Provisions	184
B. Assimilation of the Laws of the Six	186
1. The Assimilating Effect of Articles 58, 220, and 221	187
2. Provisions in the "Right-of-Establishment" Chapter Expressly Requiring Assimilation	187

a.	Article 56(2)	187
b.	Article 57(2)	188
c.	Article 54(3)(g)	188
3.	Assimilation Under the Treaty Summarized	192
4.	Further Proposals for Assimilation	193
5.	Conclusions	195
C.	The Pressure to Ameliorate Investment Conditions	196
CHAPTER X. THE PROTECTION OF COMPETITION		197
I.	Introduction—Scope, Background, and Interpretation of the Provisions for the Protection of Competition in the E.E.C. Treaty	197
A.	Scope and Organization of the Pertinent Articles	197
1.	Place of the Regulations Within the Total Structure of the Treaty	197
2.	The Rules of Competition for Enterprises in Particular	199
B.	Genesis of the Rules Protecting Competition and the Problems of Their Interpretation	203
II.	The Protection of Competition Under the National Laws of the Community Members	207
A.	Germany	207
1.	Historical Antecedents of the Law Against Restraints of Competition of 1957	207
a.	The Period Prior to the Allied Occupation	207
(1)	Developments before the passage of the Cartel Ordinance of 1923	207
(2)	From the Cartel Ordinance of 1923 to the Nazi Regime	208
(3)	Developments in the Third Reich	212
b.	The Interlude of Allied Legislation	213
2.	The Era of Law Against Restraints of Competition of July 27, 1957	216
a.	Character and Scope in General	216
(1)	Background and basic structure of the Law	216

	PAGE
(2) Cartel agreements and cartel resolutions	217
(a) Section I of the Law	217
(b) Statutory exceptions	218
(c) Categories of cartel agreements and resolutions	219
(3) Vertical restrictive agreements	221
(a) Treatment of agreements imposing resale prices or other contractual terms	221
(b) Exclusive dealing; tie-ins; use of resale restrictions	223
(c) Restrictions attached to the transfer or licensing of patents, other rights of industrial property or technological know-how	223
(4) Abuse of dominant market power	225
(5) Other restrictive or discriminatory practices	226
(6) Codes of fair competition	227
(7) Exemptions and separate regulations for particular industries	228
b. Administration; Sanctions and Liability for Infractions	228
(1) Scope and distribution of administrative responsibilities	228
(2) Penalties and tort liability for infractions	229
c. Initial Judicial and Administrative Experience	231
(1) Categories of administrative operations	231
(2) Particular judicial or administrative decisions	233
B. France	236
1. Development of French Law Relative to Restrictive Business Practices Prior to the Legislation of 1953	236

a.	Period Prior to 1945: The Regime of Article 419 of the Penal Code	236
	(1) Development Until World War II	236
	(2) World War II	239
b.	The period from 1945-1952: The Advent of "Acts Assimilated to Illegal Pricing"	241
2.	The Period Since 1953: Cartel Legislation of 1953 and Its Sequels	244
3.	The Resulting Current Picture	247
a.	General Summary	247
b.	Currently Existing Prohibitions and Their Interrelation	248
	(1) Article 419 of the Penal Code and the general principles of law	248
	(2) Particular restrictive practices prohibited by Ordinance No. 45-1483	249
	(3) The general prohibition against concerted restraints of trade	251
C.	The Netherlands	254
1.	Historical Antecedents of the Economic Competition Act of 1956-1958	254
a.	The Period Before and During the German Occupation	254
	(1) The Entrepreneurs' Agreements Act of 1935	254
	(2) The Cartel Ordinance of 1941, as amended in 1943	255
b.	From the Liberation to the Enactment of the Act of 1956-1958	256
2.	The Economic Competition Act of 1956-1958	261
a.	General Characteristics and Scope	261
b.	Particular Regulations of the New Act	263
	(1) Duty of registration and reduction to writing	263
	(2) Extension to outsiders	264
	(3) Invalidation of restrictive agreements and resolutions	265
	(4) Suppression of abuses of economic power	268

	PAGE
D. Belgium	269
1. Historical Antecedents of the Law Against Abuse of Economic Power of May 27, 1960	269
a. Statutory Development and Trends of the Case Law Apart from the Cartel Decree of 1935	269
(1) Statutory development	269
(2) The trend of the case law	272
b. The Cartel Decree of 1935	273
2. The Law of May 27, 1960, for Protection Against the Abuse of Economic Power	275
a. Evolution of Legislative Proposals to Curb Monopolistic Power	275
b. Genesis and Structure of the Law of May 27, 1960	279
E. Italy	281
1. Historical Evolution of the Italian Law Relative to Anticompetitive Practices	281
a. Developments Prior to the Fascist Cartel Legislation of 1923-1936 and the Enactment of the Civil Code of 1942	281
b. The Fascist Cartel Legislation and the Regulation of the New Civil Code of 1942	284
(1) Compulsory cartels: The Act of 1932	284
(2) Voluntary cartels: Legislation of 1936-1937	285
(3) The regulation of the new Civil Code of 1942	286
2. The Present State of Italian Law Governing Anticompetitive Practices and Proposals for Reform	287
a. Current State of Italian Law Governing Anticompetitive Practices	287
b. Proposals for Further Antirestrictive Practices Legislation	289
F. Luxembourg	292

	PAGE
III. The Protection of Competition in the European Coal and Steel Community	294
A. Fundamental Aspects of the Legal Framework of the European Common Market for Coal and Steel	294
1. Organization of the European Coal and Steel Community	294
a. Historical Background	294
b. Structure and Organs of the European Coal and Steel Community	295
2. Character and Extent of the Discipline of the Common Market for Coal and Steel	296
a. Basic Orientation of the Market	296
b. Built-In "Dirigistic" Safety Valves	298
c. Treaty Provisions Implementing the Basic Orientation	298
d. Coverage of the Market Discipline	300
B. Protection of Competition Against Collective Restraints or Adulterations by Enterprises	300
1. Nature and Extent of Protection	300
a. Sources and Types of Anticompetitive Actions and Practices in General	300
(1) Sources of proscribed actions and practices	300
(2) Types of anticompetitive practices of enterprises envisaged by the Treaty	301
b. Treaty Provisions Against Restraints and Adulterations by Enterprises	302
(1) Text of the pertinent Treaty provisions	302
(2) Scope and interpretation	304
(3) Discrimination as anticompetitive practice	306
2. Sanctions Against and Enforcement of the Treaty Prohibitions	307
a. Enforcement by Community Agencies	307
(1) Text of governing provisions	307

	PAGE
(2) Intervention by Community agencies	309
b. Sanctions by Virtue of the Legal Systems of the Member States	309
(1) Controlling Treaty provisions	309
(2) Implementation and supplementation by national laws	311
C. Protection Against Economic Concentration and Misuse of Dominant Market Power	313
1. Control of New Concentrations	313
a. Genesis and Purpose of Article 66	313
b. Method and Scope of Control	314
(1) Form of control in general	314
(2) Concept of concentration within the meaning of Article 66; scope of applicability	315
(3) Conditions for refusal of approval	316
c. Enforcement and Sanctions	317
2. Control of the Conduct of Enterprises with Dominant Market Power	318
D. Protection Against Government Interference	318
IV. The Protection of Competition in the European Economic Community	320
A. The Protection of Competition Within the General Framework of the Community Structure	320
1. Fundamental Aspects of the General European Common Market	320
a. From the European Coal and Steel Community to the European Economic Community	320
(1) Functional and institutional changes in Community organization	320
(2) Changes in the normative technique of the respective treaties	322
b. Legal Characteristics of the Common Market	322
(1) Unification without uniformization	322

	PAGE
(2) Reliance on the auto-mechanism of the market	323
2. Pattern of the Protection of Competition in the E.E.C. Treaty	324
a. Structure and Interrelation of the Treaty Provisions in General	324
b. Protection of Competition and Protection Against Discrimination	325
c. Comparison of the Protection of Competition in the E.E.C. and Coal-Steel Community	326
B. The Protection of Competition Against Collective Anticompetitive Conduct of Enterprises	326
1. Structure, Applicability, and Scope of the Prohibition Against Collective Anticompetitive Practices	326
a. Structure of the E.E.C. Treaty, Article 85	326
(1) Formulation of the general clause of the prohibition	327
(2) Specified categories of anticompetitive conduct	327
(3) Possibility of exemptions from the prohibition	328
b. The Problem of Immediate Applicability	329
c. Scope of the Prohibitions	334
(1) Capability of adversely affecting the commerce between Member States	334
(2) Types of collective action reached by the prohibitions	335
(3) Anticompetitive character within the meaning of Article 85 (1)	335
2. Enforcements: Sanctions at Public and Private Law	336
a. Sanctions at Public Law	336
b. Private Law Consequences of Violations	337
(1) Invalidity of anticompetitive agreements	337

	PAGE
(2) Tort liability for participation in anticompetitive practices	337
C. Protection Against Misuse of Dominant Market Power	339
1. Scope and Effect of Article 86	339
a. Scope of Prohibition	339
b. Practical Significance	340
2. Sanctions Against, and Private Law Conse- quences of, Misuse of Dominant Market Power	341
D. Protection Against Dumping	341
 CHAPTER XI. TAXATION	 343
Introduction	343
Part I. The Tax Systems of Common Market Countries (A Country by Country Survey)	349
Section A. Belgium	349
Subsection 1. Income Taxes	349
(a) In general	349
(b) Taxes on estimated income from realty	350
(c) Taxes on income from investments in person- alty	351
(d) Taxes on retained income from trade or busi- ness activity	352
(e) Taxes on distributed profits of an enterprise	354
(f) Complementary progressive tax on individu- al's aggregate income	355
(g) The Belgian concept of gross income	355
(h) The Belgian concept of "taxable" income	357
(i) Payment and the taxable year	359
(j) The relevance of residency, and the compara- tive cost of retaining and accumulating income	360
(k) Disposition of an enterprise	362
Subsection 2. Other Significant Taxes	363
(a) Belgian taxes on capital and property	363
(b) Taxes on turnover	363
(c) Other miscellaneous levies	364
Section B. France	364
Subsection 1. Income Taxes	364
(a) In general	364

	PAGE
(b) The progressive surtax on an individual's income	366
(c) The complementary tax on individuals	367
(d) Cumulative effect of complementary and progressive income tax on individuals	367
(e) Corporation income tax	368
(f) The French concept of gross income	369
(g) The French concept of "taxable" income	371
(h) Payment and the taxable year	372
(i) The relevance of residency as it affects individuals	372
(j) The relevance of residency as it affects corporations	373
(k) The comparative cost of retaining and distributing corporate profits	374
(l) Disposition of an incorporated enterprise	374
Subsection 2. Other French Taxes	375
(a) Taxes on capital and property	375
(b) French turnover taxes	375
(c) Miscellaneous taxes	376
Section C. Federal Republic of Germany	377
Subsection 1. Income and Net Wealth Taxes	377
(a) In general	377
(b) Income, enterprise, and net wealth taxes on individuals	378
(c) Income, net wealth, and enterprise taxes on juridical entities	379
(d) Combined impact of corporate and individual direct taxes	380
(e) German concept of gross income	382
(f) German concept of "taxable" income	384
(g) Payment and the taxable year	385
(h) The relevance of residency	386
(i) The comparative costs of retaining and distributing corporate profits	387
(j) Disposition of an enterprise	388
Subsection 2. Other German Taxes	388
(a) German taxes on capital and property	388
(b) Turnover taxes and excise duties	388
(c) Registration duty on capital contributions	389
(d) Miscellaneous	389

	PAGE
Section D. Italy	389
Subsection 1. Income Taxes	389
(a) In general	389
(b) Separately scheduled taxes on income from rural property	390
(c) Separately scheduled tax on income from urban property	391
(d) Separately scheduled tax on income from certain capital, labor, and industrial or commercial activity	391
(e) The complementary progressive tax on an individual's aggregate income	392
(f) The complementary tax on corporate excess profits and capital	392
(g) Cumulative effect of taxes imposed on distributed business income of corporations	393
(h) Italian concept of gross income	394
(i) Italian concept of "taxable" income	394
(j) Payment and the taxable year	395
(k) The relevance of residency	395
(l) The cost of retaining versus the cost of distributing profits to an American enterprise	396
(m) Disposition of an enterprise	397
Subsection 2. Other Significant Taxes	397
(a) Taxes on capital and capital transfers	397
(b) Turnover taxes and excise duties	398
(c) Other miscellaneous taxes	398
Section E. Luxembourg	398
Subsection 1. Income, Net Wealth, and Enterprise Taxes	398
(a) In general	398
(b) Income, enterprise, and net wealth taxes on individuals	399
(c) Income, net wealth, and enterprise taxes on corporations	401
(d) Combined impact of corporate and individual direct taxes	402
(e) The Luxembourg concept of gross income	403
(f) The Luxembourg concept of "taxable" income	404
(g) Payment and the taxable year	406

	PAGE
(h) The relevance of residency	406
(i) The comparative costs of retaining and distributing profits	407
(j) Disposal of an enterprise	408
Subsection 2. Other Luxembourg Taxes	408
(a) Turnover taxes and excise duties	408
(b) Registration and stamp duties	409
(c) Miscellaneous taxes	409
Section F. Netherlands	410
Subsection 1. Income and Net Wealth Taxes	410
(a) In general	410
(b) Income and net wealth taxes on individuals	410
(c) Income tax on juridical entities	412
(d) Combined impact of corporate and individual direct taxes	412
(e) The Netherlands concept of gross income	413
(f) The Netherlands concept of "taxable" income	414
(g) Payment and the taxable year	415
(h) The relevance of residency	416
(i) The cost of retaining versus the cost of distributing profits to an American enterprise	418
(j) Disposition of an enterprise	418
Subsection 2. Other Netherlands Taxes	419
(a) Turnover taxes and excise duties	419
(b) Land tax and registration duty on transfers of realty	420
(c) Succession duty and gift tax	420
(d) Miscellaneous taxes	420
Part II. Overall Tax Effects Re Direct Exports and Simple Licensing Arrangements	421
Section A. Introduction	421
Section B. Comparison of Foreign Taxes on Direct Exports	422
(a) Foreign income taxes	422
(b) Comparative effect of Common Market turnover taxes and excises on direct American exports into a member nation	425
Section C. American Taxes Re Exports Direct to Foreign Customers	428

	PAGE
(a) Introduction	428
(b) Gross income as affected by export profits from sales direct to foreign customers	428
(c) Deductions or credits for foreign taxes re exports direct to foreign customers	431
(d) Comparing the competitive tax positions of American exporters with that of other exporters, and with producers in a Common Market country	433
Section D. Foreign and Domestic Taxes Re Simple Licensing Arrangements	436
(a) Introductory note	436
(b) Comparison of foreign income taxes on royalties from licenses	437
(c) Comparison of foreign turnover taxes on royalties from licenses	439
(d) American tax treatment of foreign earned royalties	440
 Part III. Comparative Tax Effects of Conducting International Trade Through Facilities in the Common Market	 443
Section A. Introduction	443
(a) Alternative business arrangements	443
(b) Need for caution in assessing comparative data; also the varying roles of direct and indirect taxes compared to national product	444
Section B. Comparing Foreign Tax Costs of a Permanent Establishment with a Subsidiary Servicing One Member Nation	447
Subsection 1. Comparing Foreign Direct Taxes	447
(a) Comparing the role of treaties re permanent establishments and subsidiaries: In general	447
(b) Comparing direct taxes of member nations on "permanent establishments"	448
(c) Comparing direct taxes of member nations on subsidiary arrangements	449
Subsection 2. Comparing Primary Indirect Business Taxes of Member Nations	458

	PAGE
(a) Turnover taxes	458
(b) Registration and stamp duties	460
Section C. Integration of Foreign Taxes into American Taxation of Branches and Foreign Subsidi- aries Serving One Member Nation	461
(a) Introduction	461
Subsection 1. Basic Differences Between American Taxation of Foreign Branches and Foreign Subsidiaries	462
(a) Introductory note	462
(b) American "gross" income differences between branch and subsidiary operations	462
(c) Origin of the "deduction" for foreign taxes, and the difference in its applicability to sub- sidiary and permanent-establishment opera- tions	470
(d) Parity retained: Denial of a deduction for in- tercorporate dividends received from a for- eign corporation	471
(e) Parity eliminated: Origin and differences be- tween the "direct" and "deemed-paid" cred- its, and their basic relationship to the deduc- tion for foreign taxes	472
(f) The per-country limitation	479
Subsection 2. Integrating American and Common Market Direct Taxes Re Permanent Establishments and Subsidiaries	484
(a) Introductory note: need for caution in assess- ing comparative data	484
(b) Comparing integrated direct tax costs in the setting of a permanent establishment	485
(c) Comparing integrated direct tax costs of for- eign subsidiaries which retain all profits for expansion	487
(d) Comparing integrated direct tax costs of sub- sidiary arrangements where all after-tax prof- its are distributed	488
(e) Comparing integrated direct tax costs of sub- sidiary arrangements where 40% of after-tax profits are distributed	491

	PAGE
(f) Conclusion: Comparing a subsidiary-arrangement's integrated tax costs in all three stages with that of a permanent establishment . . .	492
Subsection 3. Allocating Income and Deduction Items Between American and Foreign Operations	493
(a) Introductory note	493
(b) Allocation between American operations and non-separately incorporated foreign permanent establishments	494
(c) Allocation between an American corporation and its foreign subsidiary	496
Subsection 4. Special Problems Re Credit for Foreign Taxes of a Facility Serving One Member Nation	497
(a) Introductory note	497
(b) "Delayed" distributions from accumulated earnings and profits	497
(c) Extent to which the deemed-paid credit is limited to "dividend" situations	499
(d) Required characteristics of a foreign tax if it is to qualify for the credit	502
(e) Procedure in initially claiming the credit	508
Section D. Further Foreign and American Tax Effects Where Foreign Permanent Establishment or Subsidiary in One Member Nation Exports Directly to Customers in Another	509
(a) Introductory note	509
(b) Extent to which export profits will be taxed by the importing as well as the exporting member nation	509
(c) Extent to which exports from one member nation to customers in another will encounter multiple turnover taxes	510
(d) Conclusion: Foreign tax factors to consider if a foreign permanent establishment or subsidiary is to engage in direct export to customers in other member nations	512
(e) Extent to which the importing member na-

	PAGE
tion's taxes will serve to reduce American tax liability	513
Section E. Further Tax Implications If a Foreign Operating Subsidiary in One Member Nation Creates Its Own Permanent Establishment or Subsidiary in Another Member Nation	514
Subsection 1. Further Foreign Tax Implications	514
(a) A foreign subsidiary creates a permanent establishment in another member nation: The direct tax problem	514
(b) A foreign subsidiary creates its own subsidiary in another member nation: The direct tax problem	516
(c) Further foreign turnover tax implications	519
(d) Conclusion: Choosing locale of foreign parent subsidiary, as affected by foreign tax considerations	520
Subsection 2. Integrating Foreign and American Income Tax Implications	524
(a) Introductory note	524
(b) Credit for foreign taxes where foreign subsidiary creates own permanent establishment in a second member nation	525
(c) Foreign operating subsidiary creates own subsidiary in a second member nation	526
Section F. Tax Implications If an American Enterprise Creates "Sister" Foreign Permanent Establishments or Foreign Subsidiaries	529
(a) Introductory note	529
(b) Foreign direct taxes re "sister" facilities created by an American parent	531
(c) American tax implications: In general	531
(d) American tax implications: The alternative "overall" limitation	532
Section G. Tax Implications Re Use of Foreign Holding Company Holding Stock in One or More Foreign Subsidiaries	537
(a) Introduction	537

	PAGE
(b) Luxembourg as a domicile for the holding company	538
(c) Netherlands as a domicile for the holding company	540
(d) Other Common Market countries as domiciles for the holding company	540
(e) Incorporation of the holding company in a so-called "tax haven"	541
Subsection 2. American Tax Implications Re Use of a Foreign Base Company	542
(a) Introductory note	542
(b) General tax implications	542
(c) American tax problems peculiarly incident to the creation of a base company	546
Section H. Further Tax Implications If a Common Market Facility Exports Outside the Common Market	551
Part IV. The Problem of Converting Foreign Profits and Taxes into American Dollars, As It Affects American Taxes on Those Engaged in Foreign Trade or Business	553
Section A. Introduction	553
Section B. Method and Time for Converting Foreign Profits into Dollars, Absent Blockage or Restriction	554
(a) Introductory note	554
(b) Conversion problem re profits from direct exports to foreign customers	555
(c) Conversion problem re profits derived through a foreign permanent establishment	556
(d) Conversion problem re dividends derived from a foreign subsidiary	558
Section C. Timing the Reflection of Blocked or Restricted Foreign Profits	561
(a) Introductory note	561
(b) Circumstances calling for deferral of income	561
(c) Circumstances requiring deferral of deductions and credits	566
(d) Mechanics and effect of election under Mimeograph 6475	568

	PAGE
(e) Conclusion	569
Section D. Choice of Market Place in Determining the Conversion Rate	570
(a) Introductory note	570
(b) Evolution of relevant developments	570
Section E. Conversion Problem As It Affects the Credit for Foreign Income Taxes	574
(a) Introductory note	574
(b) Conversion for purposes of the direct tax credit	574
(c) Conversion for purposes of the "deemed paid" tax credit	576
Part V. Foreign and American Taxes on Individuals As They Affect Movement of Employees to Foreign Lands	578
Section A. Introduction	578
Section B. Comparing Common Market Taxes on Americans Assigned to Work in a Member Nation	580
(a) Foreign tax effect when an American estab- lishes residence abroad: In general	580
(b) Comparative progressive impact of Common Market income taxes on employment income	582
Section C. Impact of U.S. Income Tax on American Employees Assigned to Foreign Stations	585
(a) Introductory note	585
(b) Evolution of the present alternative standards applicable to the exclusion	587
(c) Differences in the character of foreign status required by the exclusionary principle's two alternative standards	591
(d) Types of benefits excluded under § 911's al- ternative standards, and allocable deductions	594
(e) Conclusion re Americans working abroad: Filing requirements, etc.	599
Section D. Tax Implications of Business Visits By Em- ployees Between the United States and Common Market Nations	601
(a) Introductory note	601

	PAGE
(b) Intermittent trips to the States during the period an American is otherwise qualified for the § 911 exclusion	602
(c) American statutory exclusion designed to accommodate intermittent trips to the States by Common Market citizens	605
(d) Reciprocal treaty exclusions to accommodate a Common Market citizen's trips to the United States and an American citizen's trips abroad	608
 Part VI. The Future Tax Situation As It May Affect Doing Business in the Common Market	 611
Introductory note	611
Section A. Future Tax Situation in the Common Market	611
(a) Tax premises of the Common Market treaty	611
(b) The likelihood and adequacy of harmonized indirect tax systems	612
(c) Harmonization through modernization of the bilateral tax treaties among Common Market countries	616
(d) Illustrative effect of harmonization on American enterprises	617
Section B. Future American Taxation of Foreign Income	618
(a) Chronology of the past: A guide to the future	618
(b) Prospect for reduction in American taxes re income earned in the Common Market	621
(c) Prospect for a consistent pattern re deferral of American tax on foreign income	626
Bibliography of Tax Materials	634

CHAPTER XII. THE ASSOCIATION OF THE OVERSEAS COUNTRIES AND TERRITORIES 647

I. Introduction 647

	PAGE
II. The Political and Economic Status of the Territories	649
A. The Political Relation to the Metropolitan Countries	650
1. The Overseas Territories of France	650
2. The Overseas Territories of Belgium, the Netherlands, and Italy	654
B. Economic Conditions in the Overseas Territories	654
III. Association with the European Economic Community	658
A. In General	658
1. The Policy of the Treaty	658
2. The Treaty Provisions in Detail	659
B. The Substance of the Association	660
1. Removal of Trade Barriers	660
a. Tariffs	660
b. Effect of the Tariff Provisions	663
c. Quotas	665
d. Problems of Third Country Preferences and Origin of Goods	667
e. Special Problems: Duration of the Association; Relation to the Coal-Steel and Euratom Treaties	669
2. Other Provisions: Agriculture, Right of Establishment, Liberalization of Services, and Free Movement of Workers	672
a. Agriculture	672
b. The Right of Establishment	673
c. Free Movement of Workers	676
d. Freedom to Perform Services and Other Provisions	676
3. Financial Provisions	677
IV. Effects and Problems of the Association	681
A. Future Association of Independent Countries	681
B. Problems in Connection with the Proposed Free Trade Area	683
C. The Objections of Third Countries	684
ANNEX. EUROPEAN FREE TRADE ASSOCIATION, TEXT OF CONVENTION AND OTHER DOCUMENTS APPROVED AT STOCKHOLM ON 20TH NOVEMBER, 1959	687