A Conversation with Ruth Bader Ginsburg, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States

University of Michigan Law School

Follow this and additional works at: http://repository.law.umich.edu/events

Part of the Courts Commons, and the Judges Commons

Citation
http://repository.law.umich.edu/events/3

This Program is brought to you for free and open access by the Law School History and Publications at University of Michigan Law School Scholarship Repository. It has been accepted for inclusion in Event Materials by an authorized administrator of University of Michigan Law School Scholarship Repository. For more information, please contact mlaw.repository@umich.edu.
A Conversation With
RUTH BADER GINSBURG
Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 6, 2015
Hill Auditorium
PLEASE SILENCE ALL ELECTRONIC DEVICES
Audio and video of this event will be available at law.umich.edu/ginsburgconvo
The University of Michigan Law School and
The University of Michigan LSA Philosophy Department present

2015 Tanner Lecture on Human Values
A Conversation with Ruth Bader Ginsburg

WELCOME
Elizabeth Anderson
John Dewey Distinguished University Professor, Arthur F. Thurnau Professor, Department Chair, University of Michigan Philosophy Department

Mark D. West
Dean and Nippon Life Professor of Law, University of Michigan Law School

INTRODUCTION OF JUSTICE GINSBURG
Mark S. Schlissel
President, University of Michigan

TANNER LECTURE
Ruth Bader Ginsburg
Associate Justice, United States Supreme Court

MODERATORS
Kate Andrias
Assistant Professor of Law, University of Michigan Law School

Scott Hershovitz
Professor of Law and Philosophy, Director of the Law and Ethics Program, University of Michigan Law School, LSA Philosophy Department

CONCLUDING REMARKS
Scott Hershovitz
RUTH BADER GINSBURG

Ruth Bader Ginsburg was born in Brooklyn, New York, March 15, 1933. She received her BA from Cornell University, attended Harvard Law School, and received her LLB from Columbia Law School. She served as a law clerk to the Hon. Edmund L. Palmieri, Judge of the United States District Court for the Southern District of New York, from 1959–1961. From 1961–1963, she was a research associate and then associate director of the Columbia Law School Project on International Procedure. She was a professor of law at Rutgers University School of Law from 1963–1972, and Columbia Law School from 1972–1980, and a fellow at the Center for Advanced Study in the Behavioral Sciences in Stanford, California, from 1977–1978. In 1971, she was instrumental in launching the Women’s Rights Project of the American Civil Liberties Union, and served as the ACLU’s general counsel from 1973–1980, and on the National Board of Directors from 1974–1980. She was appointed a judge of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit in 1980. President Clinton nominated her as an associate justice of the Supreme Court, and she took her seat August 10, 1993. She married Martin D. Ginsburg in 1954, and has a daughter, Jane, and a son, James,
SCOTT HERSHOVITZ

Scott Hershovitz is a professor of law and a professor of philosophy at the University of Michigan. He also directs the Law and Ethics Program. Prior to joining the faculty at Michigan, he clerked for Justice Ruth Bader Ginsburg of the U.S. Supreme Court and the Hon. William A. Fletcher of the Ninth Circuit. He was also an attorney-adviser on the appellate staff of the Civil Division of the U.S. Department of Justice. Professor Hershovitz earned an AB in political science and philosophy and an MA in philosophy from the University of Georgia. He also holds a JD from Yale and a DPhil in law from the University of Oxford, where he studied as a Rhodes Scholar. Professor Hershovitz teaches and writes about jurisprudence and tort law. His publications include “The Model of Plans and the Prospects for Positivism” (Ethics, 2014), “The Role of Authority” (Philosophers’ Imprint, 2011), “Harry Potter and the Trouble with Tort Theory” (Stanford Law Review, 2010), and “Two Models of Tort (and Takings)” (Virginia Law Review, 2006). His forthcoming work includes “The End of Jurisprudence” (Yale Law Journal, 2015).

KATE ANDRIAS

Kate Andrias is an assistant professor of law at the University of Michigan Law School. She teaches and writes in the areas of constitutional and administrative law, labor law, and the law of democracy. Professor Andrias previously served as special assistant and associate counsel to the President of the United States, and as chief of staff of the White House Counsel’s Office. While in the White House, she focused on constitutional and administrative law issues and on domestic policy, including labor and immigration. Prior to joining the Obama administration, Professor Andrias was an attorney in the Washington, D.C., office of Perkins Coie LLP, where she practiced in the political law and appellate litigation groups. In addition, she clerked for Justice Ruth Bader Ginsburg of the U.S. Supreme Court and the Hon. Stephen Reinhardt of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit, and taught American Constitutional Law as a visiting professor at L’Institut d’Études Politiques (Sciences Po) in Paris. Professor Andrias earned her BA and JD from Yale. While at Yale Law School, she served on the Yale Law Journal and as a Coker Fellow. Prior to law school, Professor Andrias worked as a union organizer.
LAW AND ETHICS PROGRAM
law.umich.edu/centersandprograms/lawandethics

The Law and Ethics Program is a collaboration between the Law School and U-M's Department of Philosophy. It aims to promote advanced research and teaching at the intersection of law and ethics.

The program's main activities include:
- An annual Law and Ethics Lecture;
- A law and philosophy reading group for faculty and students in both departments;
- Support for students seeking joint degrees in law and philosophy; and
- Workshops and conferences with leading legal theorists from around the world.

TANNER LECTURE SERIES
lsa.umich.edu/philosophy/events/tannerlecture

The Tanner Lectures in Human Values are recognized internationally as major events in the intellectual world. Funded through the generosity of the late Professor of Philosophy, industrialist, and philanthropist, Obert Clark Tanner, and his wife, Grace Tanner, the Tanner Lectures aim to advance and reflect upon the scholarly and scientific learning relating to the human values and valuation. The Tanner Lectures are given each year at nine universities, by lecturers who have uncommon achievement and outstanding scholarly capabilities in the field of human values. Lecturers are drawn from philosophy, religion, the humanities and the sciences, the creative arts and learned professions, or from leadership in public or private affairs. The University of Michigan inaugurated the Tanner Lecture series in 1977.
FREEDOM OF EXPRESSION STATEMENT

Thank you for attending this program. The University of Michigan strives to create a truly open forum, one in which diverse opinions can be expressed and heard.

It is the right of members of the University community, speakers, artists, and other invited guests to express their views and opinions at the University. We will protect the right of individuals to speak or perform, and the rights of those members of the University community who wish to hear and communicate with an invited speaker or artist.

Protesters also have a right to express their opposition to a speaker in appropriate ways, both within the confines of this building and outside the facility. However, protesters must not interfere unduly with communication between a speaker or artist and members of the audience.

If the hosts of this event or University representatives believe that protesters are interfering unduly with a speaker or performer's freedom of expression, those protesters will be warned. If the warnings are not heeded and the interference continues, then the individuals responsible may be removed from the building.

We reaffirm these policies in order to most fully protect the rights of free expression for speakers, performers, and protesters alike, as set forth by our Civil Liberties Board in our Student Handbook, and in accordance with the U-M Standard Practice Guide; Regents’ Ordinance Article XII, Section 1, and state statutes.
ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

Special thanks to Sandra Andrade, Lori Atherton, Edith Baise, Laura Brewer, Andrea Chumley, Karen Edman, Laura Gray, Tish Holbrook, Alex Lee, Kimberly McKenzie, Jennifer Nguyen, Shannon Rice, Jenny Rickard, Lori Scott, Amy Spooner, Leisa Thompson, Beth Tracy, Julie Vance, Katie Vloet, and Jenny Whalen.