"A REAL CASE OF MURDER"

The Law School has recently purchased a CBS film strip that was presented as a special report on the adversary system. The film is entitled "A Real Case of Murder". The film presents the supposedly true story of "a fifteen year old Brooklyn boy (who) is accused by his thirteen year old girl friend with whom he entered a park to pet—of murdering an elderly man who the girl claimed derided them for their actions." In the trial that follows there is a tremendously exciting fight between the two lawyers, prosecutor and defense counsel. Each surprises the other at almost every turn in the case. When the film was actually shown on CBS television a panel discussion followed in which the panelists discussed the problems raised by the film; specifically whether or not the trial was actually the best means of furthering justice, or was it merely a game between the two lawyers. In the CBS presentation Edward R. Murrow was the moderator and Judge Charles S. Desmond, Chief Judge of the N.Y. Court of Appeals, and the State Prosecutor of N.Y. were on the panel.

On November 3, a Friday evening, at 7:30 p.m., in Rackham Auditorium, the Law School will show the film and sponsor a similar panel discussion. The primary purpose of this program is to introduce the freshmen law students to "the problems inherent in the adversary system and to encourage serious thinking in our second and third year students." Taking the part of Ed Murrow - moderator will be Prof. Sanford Kadish. The panel will be composed of Judge Desmond, Prof. Edmond DeVine, criminal law professor, and Miles Seeley, J.D. '29, a practicing Chicago trial lawyer.

This program is designed to be highly entertaining as well as extremely informative. With this in mind, and considering the fact that it is to be well publicized in all University and Ann Arbor publications, special arrangements are being made whereby seats will be saved for law students and their guests. Those wishing to attend will pick up tickets at a time and place to be announced. You may pick up a ticket for you and any number of guests. Ushers will save front, center seats equal to the number of tickets distributed. If these seats are not claimed by seven-twenty they will be opened to the public. Ticket holders arriving after that time will have to find seats elsewhere in the auditorium.

NATIONAL MOOT COURT TEAM TO PRESENT A MODEL ARGUMENT

A practice oral argument by the Law School's National Moot Court Team will be held on Nov. 1, at 4:00 p.m. in Room 132 of Hutchins Hall. David Dykhouse and Henry Price will argue for the petitioners in an international law case dealing with the confiscation of American property by a foreign nation. Profs. Israel, Bishop and Harris will be presiding on the bench.

Freshmen are especially encouraged to attend to see the techniques and methods of oral appellate advocacy which will be helpful to them in their case club arguments. They will also be able to observe the careful scrutiny exercised by the court.
PROFESSOR KENNEDY, CREDITORS' RIGHTS EXPERT, JOINS THE FACULTY

Prof. Kennedy, who is now teaching Creditors' Rights and Security Transactions, has joined the faculty as a permanent member. He received his A.B. from South Western Mississippi State and then attended Washington University Law School in St. Louis, Mo. There he received his LL.B. in 1939. Prof. Kennedy also holds a J.S.D. from Yale which he received in 1953.

Prof. Kennedy's special field is creditors' rights and bankruptcy. He is a contributing author in a ten volume treatise, Collier on Bankruptcy, published in 1959.

Prof. Kennedy spent one previous semester at The University of Michigan in the fall of the 1958-59 school year.
