BACK THE TEAM
For those of you who will be in New York during the Christmas vacation and who might be interested in watching our moot court team in action as they compete for the National Championship, the arguments will be held at The Association of the Bar of the City of New York, 42 West 44th Street, New York 36, New York. They will be held on December 19, 20, and 21. No exact schedule has been set as yet, but there will most likely be contests at 4 P.M. and 8 P.M. on each of these days.

HOLIDAY SEASON IS UPON US
Saturday night there will be two Lawyers Club sponsored dances: One will be the Law Wives Dance held at the American Legion, and the other will be the residents' dance held in the Lawyers Club. The reason for two separate dances is for the most part a practical one. No hall could be found which was large enough to accommodate the entire Law School student body plus guests, which would provide the facilities necessary for a social gathering of this type.

On Sunday, between 4 and 6 P.M. the Annual Musicale will feature relatively medieval music of the Christmas season featuring such instruments as the recorder.

All those who attend the Musicale are invited to a buffet supper immediately following the program. The supper is not open to those who do not attend the musicale.

DON'T FORGET THE NAVY - OR - DON'T MISS THE BOAT
A reminder that Commander Pershing Wilson of the U.S. Navy will be here on Monday, December 11, to talk with interested students about becoming a Navy Lawyer. Rumor has it that the Navy has somewhat altered its program to make it more attractive to graduates of law school. Commander Wilson will have all the answers. He will meet in Hutchins Hall at 3:30 P.M. with all those interested and will speak individually with students immediately following the meeting.

LEGAL AID PROCEDURE ANNOUNCED
The Legal Aid Committee of the Lawyers Club, under the direction of Mike Metzger, has devised the following method of assigning cases. There is a section of the large bulletin board opposite room 120 marked LEGAL AID. As the court assigns cases they will be posted at that spot. Those people in the program interested in that case will sign a list there posted. The case will then be assigned to one of the persons who signed the list. Preference will be given seniors.

SWISS LAW PROFESSOR LOOKS AT AMERICAN LIFE
Professor Dietrich Schindler, 37, a lecturer and author from the University of Zurich, is another of the foreign professors teaching in the Law School this semester. Prof. Schindler is Swiss, a native of Zurich, and his fields of special interest are Constitutional and International Law.

Prof. Schindler has a very friendly manner of describing his home and the Swiss people. In the area of world affairs, he begins, the Swiss people have an outlook that is very similar to the one held by the people of the United States; their views politically are certainly pro-western. They do, however, want to remain neutral as they have traditionally in the past and even in the event of war, such as a war over the severance of Berlin from the West, Switzerland, Prof. Schindler asserts, would remain neutral unless attacked. The standard of living is comparable to that in the United States, but the customs of living are much more traditional in Switzerland than in America, or even for that matter, than in Germany, where two wars have broken down many old prejudices. In the United States there is less class separation and less prejudice than between the classes of Switzerland. The political parties are a good example of this: the Swiss Socialist party is composed, for example, of manual workers, for in this group of people the worker finds a similar and equal group into which he is accepted without bias.

"I am quite glad to have more space in which to move around", Prof. Schindler comments, in reply to a question about distinguishing characteristics between the two countries. In Switzerland there are settlements all over, but here the towns are far apart and when you travel out of the cities, you can be far from everything and all alone.

Prof. Schindler is giving the seminar on Problems in Federalism and is assisting Prof. Stein in his International Law course, and Prof. Bishop in his Seminar on International Law. He will return to Zurich at the end of this semester.

FRATERNITY FLASHES

PHID SUNDAY SHOW
Lee and Arnold (less Arnold who is sick, plus someone else who is well) will provide background music as the Phids ring in the Yuletide this Sunday afternoon from 4 til 7. Lee, by the way, is the banjo player. Members $2 - Guests $4.

NEWS FROM TAU EPSILON RHO
Prof. Kadish has recently accepted the position of TER faculty advisor. On Friday, Dec. 1, a good time was had by all at a barn dance. On Saturday, Dec. 2, the wives club auxiliary held their second annual progressive dinner. On Friday, Dec. 8, Professor Harvey spoke at the Business luncheon.

VOLLEY BALL TEAM FALLS
A sketchy report from the UPI wire service brings news that the Lawyers Club Volley Ball Team was upset in the semi-finals last night. Captain Joe Koucky did his best to hold the team together, but Bill Brunkoff (could this really be Brukoff), recently obtained on waivers from the U.S. Army volley ball league, had trouble holding the quality of play down to an amateur level.
