OUR MAN IN HUTCHINS: On April 21st the faculty voted a change in the academic regulations of the Law School. Effective with respect to all students entering in and after September of 1960, every student will be required to elect and complete at least one seminar course to fulfill his or her graduation requirements. More seminars will probably be added to the curriculum so that a greater offering will be available. . . . Attention is called to the summer school schedule posted on the bulletin board. Classification will be May 18-19 in the afternoon. Classes and seminars for the regular session 1961-62 are also posted. . . . Offices of the Institute of Labor and Industrial Relations, formerly located in Hutchins Hall, have been moved to the Museum Annex on North University.

JUSTICE BLACK
Justice Black of the Michigan Supreme Court, former Michigan Attorney General, spoke at the Phid initiation dinner last Tuesday. The publication "The Art of Advocacy" served as the basis of his speech. He compared human vs. divine justice and said evidentiary facts are more important than the rule of law involved in a given case. "No law exists in the abstract. One efficient discoverer of fact is equal to 100 experts in the research of law". Justice Black stressed the role of the lawyer in the formation of the law, stating that 90% of the decisions never get before the judiciary; rather the lawyer makes the determination whether to settle or not and in what manner.

He praised the 4 to 6 man partnership as the optimum opportunity for the young lawyer. Other comments included the suggestion that a lawyer should never ask for a continuance which was berated as a sign of weakness; that knowledge of the judge himself is of paramount importance; also, Justice Black warned never to allow a client attempt to instruct his counsel as to how the case should be conducted. In conclusion, he stated his belief that "Juries make fewer mistakes than skilled judges".

FALL COOLEY LECTURES
Dr. H. W. R. Wade of Trinity College, Cambridge, England, will deliver the 1961 Thomas M. Cooley lectures at The University of Michigan Law School. He will discuss "Anglo-American Dilemmas in Administrative Law" Oct. 18, 19, 23, 24, and 25. The Thomas M. Cooley Lecture Series is named for one of the first three faculty members of the U-M Law School. Cooley served as a justice of the Michigan Supreme Court from 1864 to 1885, becoming dean of the U-M School in 1871. At the time of his death in 1898, he was the nation's leading authority on constitutional law and was regarded as the most distinguished legal scholar that the State had produced.

CLERKSHIPS
For the fourth year in a row, a University of Michigan law student has been named to a U.S. Supreme Court clerkship. Six others will serve as federal court clerks, and one as a clerk to a state supreme court chief justice. James N. Adler, 25, Editor-in-Chief of the Michigan Law Review, will be one of two clerks for Associate Justice Charles E. Whittaker of the Supreme Court. He holds a perfect 4.0 academic record at the end of five semesters work. No student has completed the Law School with a perfect record since 1935. (continued)
Others selected for federal court clerkships are as follows:

- William J. Addison, will clerk for Judge W. Wallace Kent of the U.S. District Court in Grand Rapids.
- George N. Diamantis, will clerk for Judge Ralph M. Freeman of the U.S. District Court, Detroit.
